POLITICAL WORK BY GRIFFIN PUT STATE FUNDS IN BANK OF ST. LOUIS

Former Vice President's Support of Bates and Other Candidates
Led to Receiving of Deposits.

The Bank of St. Louis, which has the third largest deposit of state funds in Missouri, obtained and kept that account through the political activities and friendships of its former vice president, John J. Griffin, the Post-Dispatch was told today.

Both Arthur A. Blumeyer, president of the bank, and Griffin, now a vice president of First National Bank in St. Louis, said the account resulted from Griffin's political support of the late Robert Winn, Wilson Bell, M. E. Morris and G. Hubert Bates in their successful campaigns for state treasurer.

The state treasurer selects the banks to receive state deposits, on which no interest is paid, with the approval of the Governor and state auditor. The Bank of St. Louis deposit was $15,000 last March 30.

Meanwhile, a move was under way for a thorough legislative investigation into the handling of the interest-free deposits by State Treasurer Bates.

Calls for Inquiry.

State Representative A. Clifford Jones (Rep.), St. Louis county, introduced in the Missouri House a resolution for appointment of a special committee to conduct the inquiry.

"When I went with the Bank of St. Louis in 1941 it was known as the Industrial Bank and Wilson Bell was running for state treasurer," Griffin recalled.

"I have been active in Democratic politics all my life and I was about the only St. Louis banker who went around to the ward meetings. I took Bell around and introduced him at these meetings. As a result, when he was elected, he gave this account to my bank."

In Winn's race in 1944, he had the support of Griffin. On entering office, Winn increased the size of the Bank of St. Louis account and designated it as an active one, Griffin said.

Campaigned for Bates.

Griffin also said he campaigned for Bates and before leaving the Bank of St. Louis for a position with the United Bank & Trust Co., later merged with First National, Griffin asked Bates to continue the account at Bank of St. Louis.

Asked whether he had made any substantial campaign contributions to any of the successful candidates for state treasurer, Griffin said that as chairman of the local Democratic finance committee, he had collected campaign gifts for all candidates of that party. He added he had never accepted any gift from a corporation and that all his collections and their disposition were matters of public record.

Griffin said he had obtained the state deposits also because of the friendships he had enjoyed with the various occupants of the treasurer's post. He recalled that he was at the bedside of Winn when the treasurer died here at St. Luke's Hospital in 1948.

"If you can't get help from your friends, you certainly can't get it from your enemies," he said.

Invested in U.S. Bonds.

Blumeyer said the state account at the Bank of St. Louis fluctuated from $10,000,000 to $20,000,000 from time to time and has never been lower than $8,000,000 in recent years. He said the money was invested, by order of the state, in Government bonds that paid an interest rate of .5 per cent to two per cent.

Although Blumeyer was un-

INQUIRY'S DELAY COULD NULLIFY SOME TAX CASES

ONE-MAN PATROL CARS DOING WELL, O'CONNELL SAYS

Chief of Police Jeremiah O'Connell said today he was encouraged by results of the operation of one-man patrol cars in the three districts in which they were introduced Sunday morning.

In the three full days of operation, ending at 7 a.m. today, six burglaries, one holdup and one attempted burglary were reported in areas of the Hampton, Carondelet and Ruskin avenue districts in which one-man patrol cars have been on round-the-clock duty.

Although he did not have comparative figures at hand, Chief O'Connell said the number of crimes reported was low and that results are encouraging. The plan to give one-man patrol cars a trial here was on recommendation of the Governmental Research Institute, which suggested that the operation is both efficient and economical.

MISSOURIANS GET EXTRA DAY TO FILE STATE INCOME TAX

Special to the Post-Dispatch.

JEFFERSON CITY, April 4—Missourians who owe state income taxes will have an extra day to file their returns because April 15, the deadline fixed by the income tax law, falls on Sunday this year.

M. E. Morris, director of the State Department of revenue, announced last night the deadline would be extended from Sunday, April 15, to midnight Monday, April 16. He said the department will accept with out any penalties returns placed in the mail with postmarks by the hour met again.

The investigators, who have worked more than six years gathering evidence, pointed out that statutes of limitation, which vary from three to six years, have run out in some instances and are nearing the limits in others. It was estimated today that any new indictments must be returned by next September.

Brownell, in a letter to Chief Judge George H. Moore, recommended that the tax investigation be suspended until after the trial of three defendants indicted by the jury is concluded.

The trial of Matthew J. Connell, T. Lamar Caudle and Harry I. Schwimmer, was set for May 7 in United States District Court by Judge Rubey M. Hulen.

Defense attorneys have indicated there will be delays, suggesting an attempt may be made to obtain postponements until fall. Connell and Caudle held high posts in the Truman Administration, and Schwimmer, an attorney, represented an income tax violator who escaped going to prison. The three defendants are charged with conspiring to defraud the Government through the handling of the income tax case.

Grand Juries Confused.

Members of the grand jury, before convening today, told the Post-Dispatch they were "confused" by Brownell's reply to their recent complaint that the inquiry had been stalled because the Justice Department failed to seek additional indictments against high Truman administration officials.

"We do not understand Brownell's letter; we do not know what he means," several jurors observed when asked their reactions to the letter. The jury heard two witnesses yesterday in the tax scandal investigation and heard additional witnesses today under a two-day schedule arranged prior to receipt of Brownell's recommendation.

During six Council meetings on the subject, the United States had won the full support of both Israel and the Arab countries for the plan.

Russia also swung into line after an unsuccessful attempt to incorporate a series of amendments.

The workhouse remained quiet.

Once the policemen got in with Baynes in the lead, first on the ground floor and then upstairs, the prisoners were tractable and willingly marched out in single file with their hands behind their heads.

The inmates walked between lines of policemen across the inner yard to a section formerly used for women. Women prisoners now are held at the city jail.

Five guards were on duty when the disturbance began.

Baynes said one of them, who had just come on duty at 10 o'clock, made the usual check and found all locks secure, but about 15 minutes the shouting and window-breaking began.

"I was just getting ready for bed," the warden said. "I jumped into my clothes and went into the courtyard. As I approached the Old House, windows on the second floor were being broken and prisoners on the first floor were milling around in the corridor."

He found the main door locked with a padlock, but reached through the bars with

San Francisco Alcoholism Rate Highest in U.S., St. Louis 30th

WASHINGTON, April 4 (AP)—San Francisco had "by far" the highest rate of alcoholism among the nation's big cities in 1950, two Yale University researchers reported today.

St. Louis, New York and Detroit were not even in the first 25, second by alcoholism researchers Mark Keller and Vernon Efron showed. They reported their findings in the "Quarterly Journal of Studies on Alcohol."

They said San Francisco showed a rate of 41.90 "for alcoholics with complications" for each 100,000 adults.

The survey covered cities of 100,000 or more population.

Next closest were Sacramento, Calif., with a rate of 27.80, and Louisville, Ky., 23.80.

At the other end of the ladder, the lowest rate of 4.40 for each 100,000 adults was reported ed for Austin, Tex., and Charlotte, N.C.

St. Louis had a rate of 16.20, placing thirtieth. New York City and Nashville, Tenn., with a rate of 15.50, each were next.

Baynes said he had been stalled because the Justice Department failed to seek additional indictments against high Truman administration officials.

The researchers defined "alcoholics with complications" as those "who have developed recognizable physical or mental symptoms due to excessive drinking."

The researchers said estimates are that for every such alcoholic there are three other chronic, excessive drinkers without such complications.

The survey covered cities of 100,000 or more population.

The rates were figured on the basis of adult population 20 years of age or older. The 1950 figures were said to be the most recent available.

EISENHOWER SAYS HE WOULD GO TO CONGRESS PRIOR TO ENTERING WAR

Asserts He Would Never Order Forces Into Conflict Without OK — Would Defend Selves, However.

By RAYMOND P. BRANDT

Chief Washington Correspondent of the Post-Dispatch.

WASHINGTON, April 4—President Eisenhower, his face flushed with irritation, emphasized today he would never be guilty of ordering American troops into any kind of action that could be interpreted as war without first getting the go-ahead of Congress.

The President was plainly annoyed when a woman reporter asked whether he would send the United States Marines now in the Middle East to war without prior congressional approval.

For the first time at a press conference since his heart attack, Mr. Eisenhower appeared to get angry.

FACTS GET RED.

With his face turning redder and redder as he spoke, he said that he sometimes gets discouraged at the questions at the conferences. The question apparently had been prompted by Secretary of State John Foster Dulles's statement yesterday to the effect that in a Middle East emergency, United States forces might be sent into action without congressional authorization.

A reinforced battalion of about 1500 Marines was sent last month to join the Sixth Fleet in the Mediterranean.

"I have announced time and time again that I will never be guilty of any kind of action that can be interpreted as war until the Congress, which has the constitutional authority, says so," Mr. Eisenhower said. "I have said this so often that it seems to be almost ridiculous to ask me the question."

"Now, there are times when troops, to defend themselves, may have to... undertake local war-like acts, but that is not the declaration of war, and that is not going to war, and I am not going to order any troops into anything that can be interpreted as war, until Congress directs it."

He pointed out that congressional approval for a war also included the voting of money and of a draft law. "There is already a draft law, but it probably would have to be revised in event of war."

QUESTIONED ON MIDDLE EAST.

The Middle East situation consumed a large part of the 30-minute conference.

A British reporter noted that the London press was saying today that Prime Minister Eden recently sent the President a letter specifically asking for a firmer stand by the United States in the Middle East and support of the Baghdad pact.

Mr. Eisenhower said he did not know about the exact time of the letter from Eden but if it was a recent message it certainly was not received just before his meeting with the Canadian Prime Minister and the Mexican President.

The disorder started shortly after 10 o'clock and lasted more than one hour. It ended after firemen knocked down a barricaded second-floor door with a battering ram and guards and policemen got in.

No shots were fired, and it was not necessary to use tear gas as it was when prisoners "last" June 7 and again Oct. 31. Damage was estimated at $500.

The warden said the inmates apparently used a key to get out of their cells, which were locked with identical padlocks.

POLICEMEN SOAKED.

Two faucets in cells on the upper level were broken, and strong streams of water shot forth dousing guards, policemen and other prisoners below, amid derisive laughter by the inmates above. Baynes and Chief of Police Jeremiah O'Connell were among those showered.

Baynes said he had no idea that any kind of trouble was brewing, for there had been no complaints and no demands from prisoners. The other times, there had been, and he had been expecting some kind of uprising. The men last night voiced no demands.

The warden said he was convinced, however, that the revolt was carefully planned.

Two hundred-sixty prison ers, eight to a cell, were in the affected section. Other parts of the workhouse remained quiet.

Once the policemen got in with Baynes in the lead, first on the ground floor and then upstairs, the prisoners were tractable and willingly marched out in single file with their hands behind their heads.

The area, he observed, is like a stack of jack straws—when you touch one, the equilibrium may be destroyed.

Relying to another question, he said he believed there had been no radical change in the Middle East in the last week.

Asked about Dulles's statement yesterday that the downgrading of Stalin in Russia might be the first step in the liberation of the Russian people. The President replied that he did not know what the Secretary had said.

NO CHANGE IN DOCTRINE.

He said

NEW U.S. PLAN FOR DISARMING IS STUDIED BY OTHER NATIONS

It Calls for Staged Cut-backs of Regular and Nuclear Arms, Inspections, Census of Nuclear Stockpiles.

LONDON, April 4 (AP)—Four leading United Nations atomic powers today studied the new United States "steps-to-disarmament" plan calling for staged cutbacks in both conventional and nuclear weapons to reduce the threat of war.

The United States plan calls for strict international inspections and controls, a stumbling block in previous efforts to halt the big power arms race.

Once this is working, the plan provides for a census of nuclear stocks and gradual conversion of such stockpiles to peaceful purposes.

United States delegate Harald E. Stassen outlined the proposal at a meeting of the five-power subcommittee of the United Nations Disarmament Commission. Delegates from the Soviet Union, Britain, France and Canada studied the lengthy, draft overnight before meeting again today for fresh discussion.

Russia Asks Questions.

(The United Press said the Soviet Union expressed interest in the American plan by asking eight "important and intelligent questions" about it today.)

(Soviet delegate Andrei Gromyko's prompt exploration of the new plan, contrasted with the usually long silences at past sessions.

(Stassen told Gromyko he would review the Gromyko questions and attempt to answer them at tomorrow's meeting. Stassen invited newsmen to press a conference at the United States embassy tomorrow.)

The United States plan differs significantly from an earlier Russian proposal in that it would set up controls over nuclear weapons and production as well as limitations on conventional armaments. The Soviet plan, offered last week, dealt only with conventional weapons. This was a reversal of previous Russian demands that nuclear weapons must be barred as a first step to planned disarmament.

Manpower Limits.

The United States plan also would limit military forces from the United States and Russia to 2,500,000 men each, while the Russian proposal would restrict them to 1,500,000.

A spokesman said the United States regards its plan as workable in the world we now are living in—a world divided and torn by tensions in many areas. He termed the draft an informed framework which can be revised.

Under the United States plan, the nuclear phase of disarmament would not be started until reduction of conventional arms is working smoothly.

The nuclear phase would begin with a world census of atomic and hydrogen weapons, supplies and production. Then it would proceed to a system of control and inspection, a freeze on production and finally conversion of nuclear stockpiles to peaceful uses.

Outline of U.S. Plan.

The United States outlined its disarmament plan in these stages:

1. A "confidence-building" step between the United States and the Soviet Union. This calls for tests of practical disarmament controls in special "non-sensitive" areas of the two nations, 20,000 to 30,000 square miles in size.

2. Creation of a preparatory armaments regulatory commission made up of the five powers. This body would set maximum manpower limits of 2,500,000 men each for Russia and the United States and 750,000 men each for Britain and France, with conventional arms and defense budgets keyed to the manpower level. It also would work out to safeguard against surprise attack—a control and inspection plan including President Eisenhower's "open skies" principle of aerial inspection and Soviet Premier Bulganin's suggestion of ground control posts at ports, airfields, rail terminals and highways.

3. Drafting of a disarmament treaty by the five powers. Approval of the treaty would be followed by an exchange of military "blueprints" of conventional armed strength; freezing of defense budgets at the Dec. 31, 1956, level, and start of the inspection and control system.

4. Expansion of the Disarmament Commission by admitting other states with "significant" military potential. These states, with the exception of Red China, would be limited to 500,000 troops each. All member nations would come under the inspection and control system.

5. Start of the nuclear phase of disarmament. All member nations would report their stocks and production of nuclear materials and weapons, and plans for testing nuclear weapons. The control and inspection system would be expanded to account for nuclear production and to monitor nuclear tests. Production of nuclear weapons would be progressively reduced and eventually stockpiles of nuclear weapons would be whittled down.

This cutting of stockpiles would be accomplished by transferring material already produced to "exclusively peaceful purposes."

Wisconsin Returns Viewed as Proof Of Well-Developed Farm Revolt

Vote Indicates Midwestern Farmers Who Like Eisenhower Rebel at Benson.

By SAM E. ARMSTRONG
National Correspondent of the Post-Dispatch.

MILWAUKEE, April 4—Senator Estes Kefauver made an impressive showing yesterday in a "populist" contest against President Eisenhower in Wisconsin's presidential primary election, and the vote he received removed any vestige of a doubt that a Midwestern revolt against declining farm prices is well developed.

In summary, the unopposed Democratic Senator from Tennessee on the basis of almost complete returns received nearly 42 per cent of the total vote cast in a state where Democratic candidates usually get 25 to 33 per cent of presidential primary ballots.

Comparison With 1952.

The total expected vote of 780,000 compared with 1,016,000 in the 1952 presidential primary. In 1952 the vote was divided 776,000 for the five Republican candidates and 240,000 for the three Democrats, including Senator Kefauver, who got 207,000 of the Democratic total.

The Republican vote in 1952 was high because of the contest of the late Senator Robert A. Taft, Justice Earl Warren of the United States Supreme Court and Harold E. Stassen, now a presidential assistant, and two lesser known candidates.

This year Senator Kefauver was the only Democratic candidate and John B. Chaple, a foreign policy critic, offered no real opposition to President Eisenhower. Thus there was no incentive to go to the polls to express an inter-party preference. Primary voters almost always are substantially smaller than general election totals.

This situation contrasted with that in Minnesota when Senator Kefauver was the 1952 presidential nominee, former Senator Adlai Stevenson of Illinois, waged vigorous campaigns, resulting in a victory for Kefauver and a combined Democratic vote in the March 20 elections which exceeded that of President Eisenhower in the Republican primary by 231,000.

But Wisconsin farm counties have been more strongly Republican than Minnesota. Milwaukee and Madison usually return Democratic pluralities. State's Farm Income Down.

Farm income in Wisconsin has declined 18 per cent in the last two years, and the issue has become increasingly important since the 1952 general elections.

A comparison of vote percentages of Stevenson against Eisenhower in November 1952 with the Kefauver percentages against Eisenhower in yesterday's primary in typical agricultural counties gives some interesting percentages:

Clark County, Stevenson 26 per cent, Kefauver 47 per cent; Fond du Lac, Stevenson 25, Kefauver 33; Gratiot, Stevenson 23, Kefauver 43; Pepin, Stevenson 27, Kefauver 43; Richland, Stevenson 25, Kefauver 44.

One interesting aspect of the Wisconsin primary was the action of Stevenson supporters,

Associated Press Wirephoto
Milwaukee's Socialist mayor, FRANK P. ZEIDLER, and his wife handing ballots to poll clerk after voting yesterday in election in which Zeidler was returned to office for a third term.

including many of the party leaders, in urging all Democrats to vote for Kefauver in the primary in order to make a showing against President Eisenhower, since Stevenson was not filed as a candidate in the state.

There would appear to be some substance to the claim of Kefauver supporters that, in view of the increasing pressure exerted by Kefauver on Stevenson in the race for the Democratic nomination this suggestion was not followed. In other words, many Stevenson Democrats did not vote in the primary.

Revolt Against Benson.

In spite of the popularity which President Eisenhower personally seems to enjoy, it is obvious that many farmers who supported him in 1952 have decided that their interests lie with the Democrats. As much as they like the President, they rebel at his "love-me-love-my-dog" policy toward Secretary of Agriculture Ezra Taft Benson and a combined Democratic vote in the March 20 elections which exceeded that of President Eisenhower by 231,000.

A poll conducted by the Wisconsin Agriculturist and Farmer before the Minnesota primary showed 39 per cent of its Wisconsin subscribers were for President Eisenhower, 26 per cent for Stevenson and 35 per cent undecided. Kefauver's name was not offered in the poll.

At the same time, Secretary Benson got a "favorable" vote from only 4 per cent of the subscribers, although 30 per cent had approved his work in 1953.

Benson's insistence on the system of flexible price supports for agricultural products and what some farmers regard as indifference to their plight have provided a fertile political field for Democratic candidates. Kefauver's surprising defeat of Stevenson in Minnesota was attributable in part to his more generous proposals for aid to agriculture.

The decline in milk prices in Wisconsin which prides itself as "the dairy state" and the drop in pork quotations are the principal causes of complaint.

The light vote in rural districts was partly due to stormy weather which included severe thunderstorms and a tornado which took several lives. An additional explanation was offered by Philileo Nash, Democratic state chairman, who pointed out that Kefauver had no opposition in the primary to stimulate interest among Democrats.

Kefauver campaigned for three days in February but little has been done in his behalf since then although the Republican organization, with ample funds, has been able to obtain radio time and bring party leaders here to stimulate interest in keeping President Eisenhower in the forefront.

There is no way to write in the name of candidates in Wisconsin without invalidating the ballot. Voters receive ballots for both parties, mark one and deposit it in the ballot box and discard the other.

The Democratic and Republican delegations are bound to support their candidates as long as they receive 10 per cent or more of the votes cast at the party convention or until they are released by the candidate.

With the Wisconsin delegation, Kefauver now has 65½ votes in a convention which will have a total of 1372, with 685½ votes for the nomination. Stevenson has 11½.

In 1952, President Eisenhower won Wisconsin from Stevenson 979,000 to 622,000. Truman beat Dewey in 1948, 647,000 to 590,000 although Dewey had carried the state over Roosevelt in 1944.

Benson's insistence on the system of flexible price supports for agricultural products and what some farmers regard as indifference to their plight have provided a fertile political field for Democratic candidates. Kefauver's surprising defeat of Stevenson in Minnesota was attributable in part to his more generous proposals for aid to agriculture.

The new president, who draws

$25,000 a year as head of the building supply drivers union, Local 282, said he would take only one salary in his new post.

HOFFA AID TAKES VIEWS ASCRIBED OVER NEW YORK TO GRUENTHER TEAMSTER BOARD JAR TWO NATIONS

Spurns Court Order to Do So—Incumbent to File Contempt Charges.

NEW YORK, April 4—John J. O'Rourke, New York lieutenant of James R. Hoffa, midwest truck union chief, moved into the $25,000-a-year presidency of the Teamsters Joint Council yesterday despite a federal court order prohibiting O'Rourke from taking any steps to disturb the incumbency of Martin T. Lacey.

Godfrey P. Schmidt, counsel for the deposed president, said he would file a contempt of court charge today. He made his statement after the council's executive board, including the lone officer elected on the Lacey slate, had voted in favor of seating O'Rourke.

Lacey attended the meeting in his own headquarters, but made no effort to halt the O'Rourke coup on advice of Schmidt.

Battle for Control.

The assumption of power by the pro-Hoffa forces marked a new step in the bitter battle for control of 125,000 union truck drivers and warehousemen in the metropolitan area. Lacey has charged that a victory for his rival would make the council subject to the arbitrary and ruthless control and decision of gangsters, racketeers and others.

O'Rourke announced his action in an impromptu news conference in a corridor of the federal courthouse a few minutes before United States District Judge Edmund L. Palmieri began considering a Lacey petition to have a 12-day old restraining order against the Federal Republic. Naturally we can liberate it again, later on."

The Dutch Defense Minister, Cornelis Staf, told the upper house: "In my opinion it cannot be true that Gen. Gruenthal has said this. It would be highly unusual."

He announced he had been asked for the exact text of the reported interview. He declared: "It is most unfortunate and all the more painful since members of this house have repeatedly criticized the fact that NATO commanders make political statements in public..."

Talk of NATO Defense Line in South France Stirs Dutch and West Germans.

PARIS, April 4 (AP)—A storm blew up in West Germany and the Netherlands today over a reported statement of NATO's American commander in Europe that its defense line must be drawn in southwestern France.

Gen. Alfred M. Gruenthal was quoted to that effect in an interview with him in German newspapers.

Gen. Gruenthal could not be reached for comment, but a spokesman at his headquarters said the published statements were a distortion of his remarks. The West German and Netherlands governments both ordered their representatives at North Atlantic Treaty Organization headquarters near Paris to check whether Gruenthal had been quoted correctly.

Discussed in Dutch Senate.

Senator W. C. Wendelaar told the upper house of the Netherlands Parliament that drawing the NATO defense line in southwestern France meant "the Federal Republic of Germany" and the Netherlands will be at the mercy of the enemy."

The published German reports had Gruenthal saying, "If we have to fight in the field, we will naturally not be strong enough to hold the front in Europe. We can do nothing but defend ourselves in the hinterland. We will have to give up the area of the Federal Republic. Naturally we can liberate it again, later on."

GEN. FLOYD WOOD KILLED IN JET TRAINER CRASH

Deputy Research Chief for Air Force Command Dies—Another Officer Loses Life.

BALTIMORE, April 4 (AP)—Maj. Gen. Floyd Bernard Wood, 47-year-old Air Force weather expert, and Capt. Gail A. Peito, 29, his navigator, were killed last night in the crash of their jet trainer.

The two officers, both attached to Air Research and Development Command headquarters here, were thrown from the T-33 jet trainer when it plunged into a wooded area and caught fire shortly after take-off from Friendship International Airport.

Gen. Wood was deputy commander for research and development of ARDC and was slated to take over as commander of the Air Flight Test Center at Edwards Air Force Base, Calif., in June.

Capt. Peito was development plans and programming officer for ARDC.

He and Gen. Wood took off in a dense fog shortly after 7 p.m. on a flight to Eglin Air Force Base, Fla.

From 1945 to 1947 Gen. Wood served with the joint Brazil-United States military commission at Rio de Janeiro and returned to this country for various assignments with the Air Materiel Command at Wright Field, Dayton, O. In June 1951 he became chief of staff of the newly-organized Wright Air Development Center at Wright-Patterson Air Force Base and joined the ARDC in April 1952.

He was promoted to major general in July 1954 and assumed the post of deputy commander for research and development last Aug. 1.

Gen. Wood was married to the former Nanice Allen and maintained a permanent residence in Richland Springs, Tex., where he was born. They had no children.

Capt. Peito, a reserve officer, is survived by his wife and three daughters, who live in Baltimore.

ASSESSOR TO RUN FOR RE-ELECTION DESPITE BLAST BY COUNTY JURY

Panel Charges Deuser Has Been Derelict About Correcting Inequalities in Property Valuations.

St. Louis County Assessor Phil G. Deuser said today he would be a candidate to succeed himself in the August primaries despite a sharply critical circuit court grand jury report yesterday, which said he and his staff were "derelict" in not "correcting irregularities" in county property assessments.

In a preliminary report to Circuit Judge Noah Weinstein, the jury said, "Little or no attempt has been made to adjust values in neighborhoods where many sales have taken place in recent years and definite property values have been established."

"The standard explanation of insufficient help through lack of funds does not seem to be altogether satisfactory," the report said. "The assessor has been in office since 1941, but the jury could find no evidence of any attempt to correct inequalities even in his first term. The jury is aware of the great difficulty in making assessments on account of the rapid growth of the county and it does not impugn the honesty of the assessor or his assistants."

"The assessor has been derelict in not exerting himself more actively to correct these irregularities," the report said.

Calls Move 'Political.'

Deuser, a Republican who will be running for his fifth term as assessor, said he believed that this "grand jury investigation of assessments was a political move inspired by Judge Weinstein," who is a Democrat.

He added that several years ago before Weinstein became a judge, Weinstein made several efforts to have the assessed value of his home in Ladue lowered. These were unsuccessful, Deuser said.

Judge Weinstein, asked by a reporter about his visit to Deuser, said "no comment." He declined to confirm or deny that he visited the assessor's office.

Deuser said the criticism in the jury's report is "not the kind that should make me resign my office. I have not done anything to be ashamed of. I have not done anything dishonest. I think I've got a darned good record. I've done everything possible with the staff I've had."

County Supervisor Luman F. Matthews expressed full confidence in Deuser.

"I feel he has done as much as could be expected with the funds available," he said, adding that inequities in assessments have developed elsewhere in the state because of rapid real estate development.

Matthews recalled that Deuser had requested additional appropriations many times in the last four years for revaluation of county property.

"We just couldn't give it to him," Matthews said.

Continuing Reappraisal Urged.

A recommendation that some type of "permanent and continuing form of reappraisal" of property values be undertaken by the assessor's office was made by the jury. Unless this is done, the report continued, the present reappraisal being made by two private firms "will become obsolete within a few years."

The jury approved the recent employment of Roy W. Wenzlick & Co. and Doane Agricultural Service, Inc., for a complete parcel-by-parcel reappraisal of county real estate.

In an exhibit attached to the jury's report, it was pointed out that the burden of taxation on real estate has increased as a result of the State Tax Commiss-

Grace Kelly Sails for Monaco, No Thoughts on Movie Future

New York police officer puts out restraining hand while longshoremen crowd close as actress GRACE KELLY moves to the liner Constitution today for start of voyage to Monaco.

Too Interested in Marriage Career — She Will Have Dual Citizenship—Honeymoon on Prince's Yacht.

NEW YORK, April 4 (AP) — Glamorous film actress Grace Kelly sailed today aboard the liner Constitution for her wedding to Prince Rainier III of Monaco, tiny principality on the Riviera.

She told a crowded press conference before leaving that she was "too interested in my marriage career" to think of any return to the movies.

Questioned on her future citizenship, she said:

"On my marriage I will become a Monogasque but it will not affect my American citizenship. I will have a dual citizenship."

She was asked if her children, if any, will be American citizens.

"I don't know," she said. "I doubt it."

"Would you like a large family?" asked a woman reporter touching on a topic the movie star previously had described as "personal."

"I hope I have one—yes," Miss Kelly smilingly replied.

The couple will be married in a civil ceremony April 18 and in a Roman Catholic wedding the next day. This follows French and Monaco custom where the civil ceremony is the only one recognized by the state.

The actress was asked how she felt at leaving the United States for the last time as Miss Kelly.

"I hope I will be coming back to America quite often," she answered.

She said the honeymoon would be spent aboard the Prince's yacht. She said there would be the Prince, herself, a crew of 10, her French poodle Oliver and two of the Prince's dogs.

She said they would cruise the Mediterranean for about a month with no particular destination.

She said she hoped to return with the Prince to the United States for a visit this fall.

tion order to bring property assessments up to at least 30 per cent of the true value of the property.

The exhibit also showed that the tax on real estate increased from 68 to 78 per cent of the total tax revenue of the county between 1954 and 1955. It is hard to justify this, the report said, adding that although real estate values have increased, so has the population, the personal property of individuals and the inventories of businesses and utilities. Taxes from these sources have decreased percentage-wise over the two years.

Proposal on New Building. The jury also recommended legislation to make mandatory the reporting by municipalities of any new construction within their boundaries to the assessor's office so that the new property may be placed in the same manner as other property of equal value in the same neighborhoods.

However, the report added, "there is no doubt that great inequities exist among comparable pieces of property." A study showed some of these inequities have not been changed since 1932. Greatest disparity in assessed valuation exists in land zoned for commercial use, the jury said.

On the other hand, low and medium priced homes in newly developed subdivisions were assessed closely in the first instance and are now assessed at 30 per cent of their true value so that the newer residents are carrying more than their share of the tax load," the report said.

A suit for injunction to test the validity of the contracts between the county and the private firms which will conduct the parcel-by-parcel revaluation of county real estate was filed today in circuit court at Clayton on behalf of Milton A. Hellman, 5 Indian Hill road, Ladue, who is retired.

Hellman's suit contends the contracts with the Wenzlick and Doane firms are unconstitutional and an "invalid delegation of the county assessor's duties." It names the county council, supervisor, council, assessor, treasurer, auditor and the two firms as defendants.

BARRACKS GAS ALL-MILITARY CHANCES GOOD, AIRPORT NORTH OF CITY URGED

Laclede Representative to Survey Practicality of Extending Lines.

The prospect of having natural gas supplied to the Jefferson Barracks housing project was described as "very encouraging" today by St. Louis County Supervisor Luman F. Matthews following a conference yesterday with representatives of Laclede Gas Co.

Matthews said two representatives of the utility had agreed to make an immediate start on a survey of the practicability of extending gas lines to the County Housing Authority project. The survey team will meet tomorrow at the project with Robert J. Tracy, executive director of the Housing Authority. One of its tasks is to locate the present lines that run into or close to the housing area, Matthews said.

The survey team will meet tomorrow at the project with Robert J. Tracy, executive director of the Housing Authority. One of its tasks is to locate the present lines that run into or close to the housing area, Matthews said.

Matthews expressed the hope the utility would act favorably on the application for natural gas and that installation could be completed by Aug. 1, when the present propane contract expires.

While Laclede did not commit itself to accepting the application, Matthews said, he pointed out that conditions which led the company to reject a similar application several years ago had changed.

In the earlier instance, Laclede was short of gas and the housing project was designated as temporary in character.

Matthews said he had been asked if the Dardene site was suitable for a proposed Dardene site to be completed by the city and the Chamber of Commerce after three months of intensive research and consultation with representatives of the Missouri Resources and Development Commission and civic and community leaders from the area.

Vigorous opposition to the proposed Dardene site has come, however, from residents in and near the suggested new military landing field.

The Elsberry group offered its site after the opposition arose from the Dardene Valley toll was from Monday night.

320 Homes Destroyed.

In Washington, the Red Cross said that 320 homes were destroyed, 969 damaged and 1496 families affected in eight states yesterday.

The proposed military airport would be used by the Naval Air Station and Missouri Air National Guard, and for testing operations for the McDonnell Aircraft Corporation's jet planes.

In a joint letter to the Secretaries of Defense, Navy and Air Force, the city and the Chamber of Commerce proposed that some arrangement be concluded by which the city could participate financially in return for rights to use the field for occasional overflow traffic from Lambert-St. Louis Field.

Besides Steavenson, the delegation included Mayor Edward Whittaker and President Ralph Humphrey of the Chamber of Commerce of Elsberry.

No Proof in the Pudding.

NEUBIBERG, Germany, April 4 (AP) — The United States Air Force base here, here recently acquired a book titled "Three Weeks to a Better Memory." The librarian reports the first borrower forgot to return it.

Mr. Eugene H. Bruns and Mrs. Samuel W. Osborne, who occupy apartments at the project, also testified. They said later there should be more flexibility in the rules on limitation of income, to allow for overtime pay.

Among the witnesses heard yesterday were W. C. Anderson, manager of the Missouri Inspection Bureau who brought a copy of the bureau's report on hazards at the housing site; Allan Burgess, assistant foreman of a maintenance crew employed by the County Housing Authority, and Earl Midkiff, former truck driver for a company that formerly supplied propane gas to the project.

Six Asked to Testify.

The St. Louis circuit court grand jury invited eight witnesses to appear before it today in its investigation of the operations of the Barracks.

Miss Kelly said one of the big surprise wedding gifts was from her friends and neighbors in Philadelphia, who sent a $14,000 movie projection outfit for the palace in Monaco.

By the United Press.

Others in Miss Kelly's party are scattered in state rooms on three decks of the Constitution. Twenty-five men and women from press, radio and television occupy cabin class staterooms. Three photographers and a public relations man are assigned beds in the ship's hospital. Everything else was filled.

The future princess is taking along her secretary, Nadia Woods, and her personal hair dresser, Virginia Darcy, but they do not plan to work for her after the wedding.

The Constitution will anchor in the harbor of Monaco after the other passengers embark at Cannes, France, so the Prince can pull alongside in his yacht to take Miss Kelly and her family aboard.

U.S. INCOME TAX IN STATE $989,000 LOWER THAN IN '54

Total federal income tax collections in Missouri last year amounted to $1,700,605,000, a reduction of $989,000 from 1954, the Internal Revenue Service in Washington announced today.

Ernest M. Flinn, collector here, attributed the drop to the moving of the Army Records Center to Indianapolis and the transfer of the Army Medical Depot from St. Louis to Louisville, Ky.

"In 1954 we had a fairly large army payroll here," Flinn said.

In Illinois the total income tax collected last year was $5,698,027,000 as compared with $5,547,428,000 in 1954. The total collected from all 48 states, including Alaska and Hawaii, was $69,294,764,000.

For the benefit of taxpayers who need assistance in preparing their tax returns, the revenue service office in the basement of the Federal building at Twelfth and Market streets will be open this Saturday and next Saturday from 8:30 a.m. to 12:30 p.m. Returns and payments must be in the mail by midnight April 16.

WEBSTER GROVES SCHOOL BONDS LOSE BY 8 VOTES

Two-Thirds Majority Was Needed—Bayless, Valley Park Issues Approved.

Voters in the Webster Groves School District defeated a $2,850,000 bond issue proposal by a margin of eight votes yesterday in one of the elections held in the 29 school districts of St. Louis county.

The proposal which would have provided funds for new buildings, additions and remodeling of existing structures received a favorable majority of 3520 to 1772 but the affirmative vote lacked the two-thirds majority required for passage.

In the Bayless School District, voters approved a $70,000 issue for the purchase of new school sites, additions and remodeling. The vote was 428 to 197.

Valley Park voters also approved a $130,000 bond issue for additions to school buildings, 521 to 167.

A proposal by the Jennings School District to annex about seven acres now in the Riverview Gardens District was approved by Jennings voters but the proposal failed to appear on the Riverview Gardens ballot because it was received too late, officials said.

Customary procedure where two districts take contrary action on a proposal of this kind is for the County Superintendent of Schools to appoint a five-member arbitration board to settle the question. Officials were uncertain of the procedure to be followed when the proposal was not voted on by one district.

Maryland Heights Defeat.

Voters of the Maryland Heights School District defeated a proposal to retain a tax rate of $3.58 on each $100 of assessed valuation, the highest rate in St. Louis county. As a result, the maximum rate that can be levied this year becomes $1. School officials said another election would be called soon.

In the Jefferson Barracks School District, voters fixed the rate at $2.25, rejecting a proposal for a $2.50 rate. The levy had been $2.79 on the $100.

Present levies were retained Kinloch School District, $2.77, and Valley Park, $3.25.

Increased rates were approved in 20 school districts. The districts, together with the old rate and the new 1956 rate (including rates for previously voted bond issues) follow:

Afton, $2.29 to $2.64; Bayless, $1.99 to $2.42; Berkeley, $2.16 to $2.75; Brentwood, $2.36 to $2.59; Jennings, $2.15 to $2.40; Ladue, $1.84 to $2.20; Maplewood-Richmond Heights, $2.37 to $2.77.

Riverview Gardens, $2.58 to $2.88; R-1 (Hazelwood), $1.72 to $2.65; R-2 (Ferguson-Florissant), $2.65 to $2.95; R-3 (Pattonville), $2.72 to $3.08; R-6 (Eureka), $2.40 to $2.60.

Kirkwood and Mehlville, R-7 (Kirkwood), $3.26 to $3.47; R-8, $2.22 to $2.45; R-9 (Mehlville), $2.28 to $2.77; University City, $2.03 to $2.73; Wellston, $2.15 to $2.50; Parkway Consolidated, $2.05 to $2.95, and Seudder, $1.90 to $2.85.

Clayton, Hancock Place, Webster Groves, Normandy and West Walnut Manor districts had no tax rate proposals to vote on.

The school boards of the first three have voted higher levies under an authorization granted by the voters in 1954 or 1955. That authorization is still in effect although the rates had been reduced last year following higher real estate assessments ordered by the State Tax Commission.

Increases approved by the school boards of Normandy and West Walnut Manor were only for the purpose of funding bond issues approved last fall.

Directors elected in school board contests were (two to be elected except as noted):

Afton — William Thompson and Fred Bringer.

Bayless — Theodore J. Brecht and Tom Harrington.

230,000 TERMITES WORM WAY INTO THE SMITHSONIAN

WASHINGTON, April 4 (AP)—The Smithsonian Institution reports that the taxpayers own 230,000 termites. The collection includes 1286 of the 2000 known species, and has been built up over many years by the Department of Agriculture.

Now the Smithsonian has taken over not only the collection, but its collector, Dr. Thomas E. Snyder, who at 71 and after 46 years of termite study, still has a lively interest in the subject.

Each day, Dr. Snyder figures, termites so more than $250,000 damage to buildings in this country.

Termites first set up house-keeping on earth 50,000,000 years ago. For millions of years they performed a useful service, changing dead wood into usable plant food.

Then man came along to upset the balance of nature. And when the woods were cut down, the termites moved into man's buildings.

U.S. REDS ASKED TO JOIN IN INQUIRY OF STALIN PURGES

The New York Times News Service. (Copyright 1956 by the New York Times Co.)

NEW YORK, April 4—The Communist party of the United States has been asked to join in setting up an impartial international commission of inquiry into Stalin's purge trials within the Soviet Union and elsewhere.

The request was made in a letter to Eugene Dennis, general secretary of the Communist party here, by Farrell Dobbs, national chairman of the Socialist Workers party, a Trotskyite organization.

Trotskyite sources indicated they had in mind a body that might include men like British labor leader Aneurin Bevan and British philosopher Bertrand Russell. A body headed by the late Prof. John Dewey investigated the Moscow trials in the 1930s and concluded they were fabricated.

KEFAUVER TERMS FOREIGN POLICY HANDLING INEPT

Assails Dulles 'Brinks' and 'Reappraisals,
Says U.S. Has Lost Initiative.

MIAMI, Fla., April 4 (AP)— Senator Estes Kefauver sharply criticized the Eisenhower Administration last night for what he called its "inept" handling of foreign policy.

In a speech at West Palm Beach, the Tennessee Democrat said the Republicans had failed to take a firm stand regarding Nationalist-held islands off the Red China mainland, had made no move to ease the tension in Cyprus, had practically abandoned the free peoples of Asia, and had failed to find an answer to the new Soviet policy of penetration through economic aid.

Kefauver said our NATO relations have deteriorated, that Greece, Turkey and Britain are divided over Cyprus and that serious conflicts in policy with India and other free Asia nations have increased under the Eisenhower Administration.

Initiative Lost, He Says.
The United States, he said, has lost the initiative in the cold war with Russia and "recently we have suffered some disturbing setbacks in foreign policy."

While present foreign policy follows the general line of previous United States foreign policy, he said, its administration "has been inept in many, many instances."

Kefauver charged that American policy is cloudy toward the islands of Quemoy and Matsu off Red China mainland, which he said are "as near the coast of China as Staten Island is to the Port of New York."

Kefauver charged also the Republican Administration had made "no effective effort" to repair the division created by the dispute over Cyprus.

"The summit conference was handled so ineptly that it opened the way to world-wide Communist success in the attempt to pose as champions of decreasing tensions and promoting peace," Kefauver said.

Urge Broadening NATO.
Kefauver urged that NATO be expanded from a simple military alliance to a close union of leaders of the various nations so that it will become a medium for the development of other common policy."

He said: "We are in the same boat together and we might as well paddle in the same direction."

He urged imaginative leadership in the Far East so that America again will be looked on as the champion of oppressed people everywhere.

Kefauver said the United States should remember that great portions of the Asian population go to bed hungry.

"Here is a logical place for the use of some of the agricultural surplus that Mr. Benson cries so often about. We ought to use the surplus, not moon about it . . . and one way we can use it is in furtherance of our legitimate foreign policy aims in assisting underdeveloped countries and trading with many others," he said.

Integration Plea.

Kefauver touched once again on segregation.

He called on leaders of both races to get together at the community level and seek a sound solution, adding that integration is the law of the land.

Kefauver planned to spend today shaking hands and holding informal chats with voters in his drive to capture the state's 28 Democratic national convention votes in the May 29 presidential preference primary.

Tonight he will outline his views on the Near East crisis in a speech at Miami Beach. He will wind up three days of campaigning in Florida at midnight when he leaves for Omaha, Neb.

He plans to return to Florida for four days starting April 11 and to make another trip to this state in May.

200 PRISONERS

A key and unlocked it. Policemen soon were arriving, and Baynes and a group of them herded the men back to the far end of the corridor. There they found the inner stairway barricaded with beds, and then brought the prisoners back and out the door.

Baynes reported all quiet at the workhouse today, with the prisoners causing no further difficulty. The warden made them go without breakfast.

The workhouse is more than 100 years old, and has long been considered inadequate. A city bond issue last May included $3,000,000 for a new one, and plans for it have been started.

Predicts Start Soon.
Sidney Maestre, chairman of the citizens' watchdog committee on use of the bond issue money, said the new workhouse probably can be started in the city's fiscal year that begins next Tuesday. There will be further discussion of the plans for it at the committee's next meeting, in a few days, he said.

Mrs. Brungard was kept informed of the situation at frequent intervals last night. Mayor Raymond R. Tucker and Joseph P. Sestric, director of public safety, went to the workhouse in the disturbance.

UNION KEEPS TOP CLOWNS OUT OF TV SHOW OF CIRCUS

NEW YORK, April 4 (AP)—Television fans missed a number of familiar funny faces in a preview of highlights of the Ringling Bros. and Barnum & Bailey circus last night. Sad-faced Emmet Kelly and pantomimist Otto Griebling, top performers among the greasepaint gentry, were absent because of a labor dispute. A number of other clowns were not cast for TV because of a television appearance before the circus reached New York.

The American Guild of Variety Artists and Local 447, International Brotherhood of Teamsters picketed Madison Square Garden yesterday in a move to organize the circus's 900 entertainers, roustabouts and drivers. AGVA notified Kelly and Griebling not to appear on the CBS-TV show last night. In court today the anti-picketing injunction was continued for at least 24 hours. The action insured no interruption of tonight's opening at the Garden for a 40-day stand.

YOUR SONS MAY BE REDS, KHRUSHCHEV TELLS PRESS

MOSCOW, April 4 (UP)—International Communist Party Chief Nikita S. Khrushchev, predicting eventual triumph of Communism over capitalism, told western newsmen joshingly yesterday that "maybe your sons or grandsons will be Communists."

"I'm sure it will be their sons," put in Soviet Foreign Minister V. M. Molotov at the reception for Swedish Premier Tage Erlander. But Khrushchev had the last word.

"Mr. Molotov is in a hurry," he said with a laugh.

POLITICAL WORK

able to say what profits were made on the interest-free account, he acknowledged that they represented a desirable aspect of the bank's earnings. He described the account as an active one, but said the state seldom issued more than 10 to 12 checks against it each year. These checks, however, were in multiples of $1,000,000, he said.

Because the bank must hold itself in readiness to handle all of the transactions now taking place at Jefferson City and Kansas City where the other two active accounts are kept, the Bank of St. Louis must maintain a clearing staff which is larger than current needs. This adds to the expenses of servicing the account, he said.

"We would prefer to retain the account," Blumeyer said, "and I imagine we would be willing to pay some interest on it if the law permitted and required it."

Another major state depository is the Central Missouri Trust Co. of Jefferson City. Its board chairman is Howard Cook, an influential top echelon Democratic leader. President of the bank is Richard R. Nacy, a former state treasurer, a powerful Democratic leader and a close political friend of the Governor.

Nacy reported the bank's net profits from its over-all operations last year were $208,000, but he declined to say how much the bank earned on its state deposits.

He said Central Missouri Trust had been a state depository since 1912, during both Democratic and Republican administrations. Over the years, he said the amount of state money in his bank had fluctuated greatly, "from almost nothing to as much as $30,000,000."

The resolution introduced in the Missouri House by Jones today declared that "it has been revealed that the state treasurer is a stockholder in a bank which holds interest-free state funds, and a violation of the Missouri statutes is indicated thereby."

Jones's effort to obtain immediate authorization for the inquiry was blocked. Representative Omer H. Avery of Troy, Democratic floor leader, said he thought the proposal was "worthy of study" and asked that the resolution be referred to a standing House committee in accordance with the rules.

Avery's motion to refer the Jones resolution was passed by a vote of 66 to 52. The vote closely followed party lines, with most members of the Democratic majority supporting their floor leader.

Charge of 'Scandal'

The resolution charged the "scandal" over the award of state funds to Missouri banks has been a "controlling influence" in Missouri political affairs.

The state treasurer, by his admission, has revealed evidence of the political power behind the placement of idle, interest-free state funds."

This was reference to the admission by Bates that he is a stockholder in the Lexington Saving Trust Co., a bank in which $300,000 in state funds have been deposited. No interest is paid to the state on this money.

It proposed that a special committee of three Democrats and three Republicans be established to investigate the placement of state funds in the last 12 years. The committee also would be charged with checking into any requests of legislators that state funds be retained in favored banks, and also any campaign contributions influenced by such deposits.

In urging adoption of the resolution, Jones said there were reports that legislators had influenced the placement of state deposits. He said "we should investigate ourselves."

Later, Speaker Roy Hamlin (Dem.) said he will refer the proposal to an appropriate committee. However, he expressed doubt that the House could authorize the inquiry under a recent ruling of the Attorney General, because the subject of state bank deposits had not been submitted to the special session by the Governor.

Donnelly has before him a resolution recently adopted by the legislative committee of the Missouri Bankers Association requesting that he call on the Legislature for immediate passage of a proposal submitting a constitutional amendment to the voters to clear the way for the state to earn interest on its funds.

The bankers' resolution has the backing of Nacy, chairman of the legislative committee.

As the Post-Dispatch reported yesterday, state law prohibits the state treasurer from profiting personally from state funds under his control.

CANNOT INVEST FUNDS.

The state cannot legally invest its own idle funds, but must maintain virtually all of its money in demand deposits in banks. The banks, however, earn interest on these funds by investing them in short-term government notes and securities.

"The manner in which Bates has handled these funds is a disgrace," Jones declared. "It is no surprise to us."

"I did not know, however, that Bates owned stock in one of the banks in which he deposited state money."

It also was reported by the Post-Dispatch yesterday that Gov. Phil M. Donnelly is a director of the First National Bank at Lebanon, which also has a $300,000 deposit of state funds on which no interest is paid to the state.

Although state law prohibits the state treasurer from profiting personally from funds under his control, there is no law which specifically prohibits the Governor from being connected with a bank in which state deposits are placed.

Bates has the initial authority to select the banks in which state deposits are to be maintained under two-year contracts. His selections, however, are subject to subsequent approval by the Governor and State Auditor Haskell Holman.

Attorney General John M. Dalton has said he will make a study to determine whether there has been any violation of state law. He said today he has assigned two assistants to check the applicable laws.

He pointed out that if any action is considered necessary, the matter could be turned over to the Prosecuting Attorney of Cole county here, or to the prosecutor of Lafayette county, in which the Lexington bank is located. He contended, however, that the issue to be determined is whether marking can be shown.

State Representative Jones said he thought the Legislature, which is now meeting in special session, should make a thorough investigation of the handling of state funds, unless Attorney General Dalton takes immediate action.

The Attorney General has been playing a political game with the vested interests that control state deposits," the St. Louis county legislator charged. "He has tied his hands with a political opinion. So he better get to work in a hurry to show his good faith."

Striking at Recent Opinion.

Jones referred to a recent opinion by Dalton that the Legislature has no power in the present special session to consider a resolution submitting to Missouri voters a constitutional amendment which would allow the state to invest its idle funds. Such a resolution had been proposed by Jones and State Representative Warren E. Hearnes (Dem.) of Mississippi county.

State Representative Samuel B. Murphy of Kirkwood, Republican floor leader, joined Jones in demanding a legislative investigation if Dalton fails to act.

"Exposure of this sordid mess is long overdue," he asserted. "Such an investigation would bring to the attention of thinking Missourians the facts of political life, showing clearly where the political power in the state lies. This power rests with the long-established alliance between some members of the Missouri Bankers Association and the well-entrenched Democratic organization in Missouri."

No Apologies, Says Bates.

Bates, who admitted the state fund deposit in the Lexington bank was increased from $100,000 to $300,000 after he became State Treasurer, said he had done nothing wrong and had "no apologies to make."

He admitted he owns 15 shares of stock in the bank, of which his cousin, W. H. Bates, is vice president.

Bates contended he had been advised by the Attorney General's office after he was elected State Treasurer that he did not have to dispose of his stock in the bank at Lexington, his former home.

The Post-Dispatch first reported the legal complications and political manipulations arising from the present system of handling state deposits, which is costing Missouri an estimated $500,000 to $1,000,000 a year in interest on idle funds.

As of March 30, the state had $111,359,440 on deposit in 262 Missouri banks. Deposits totaling more than $54,000,000, or almost half of the amount, were held in three banks. They are Central Missouri Trust Co. of Jefferson City, $15,156,466; Commerce Trust Co. of Kansas City, $24,067,893, and the Bank of St. Louis, $15,000,000.

Nine other St. Louis area banks held large deposits. They include First National Bank in St. Louis, $5,000,000; Boatmen's National Bank, $5,000,000; Tower Grove Bank and Trust Co., $3,250,000; Mercantile Trust Co., $2,400,000; Southwest Bank, $1,500,000; Bank of Ferguson, $1,500,000; Manufacturers' Bank and Trust Co., $800,000; Jefferson Bank and Trust Co., $600,000, and American National Bank in St. Louis, $230,000.

Other outstate banks which held large deposits include City National Bank and Trust Co., Kansas City, $3,000,000; Exchange National Bank, Jefferson City, $1,500,000; First National Bank of Cape Girardeau, $1,500,000; First National Bank of Kansas City, $1,000,000, and Manufacturers' and Mechanics Bank of Kansas City, $750,000.

Denies Political Motive.

Bates denied today he had refused to renew depository contracts with some banks for political reasons. When asked about complaints that some banks were cut off because their officials refused to contribute to the Democratic party, he said he did not know who contributed or did not contribute to the party.

"I say that everything I have done is legal," he declared. "Any intimation to the contrary is incorrect and I expect to defend myself, if necessary."

As pointed out in the Post-Dispatch last Feb. 5, the awards of interest-free state deposits have long been regarded as political plums.

EISENHOWER SAYS HE WOULD GET OK ON USE OF TROOPS

Zhukov had been made public, he replied that the substance had been given out, but that the text would never be given out by him.

The President opened the conference with a voluntary statement on the seventh anniversary today of the founding of the North Atlantic Treaty Organization to protect Western Europe from possible Russian aggression.

As of today, he said, NATO has proved its worth and the free world is in a better position because of it. He recalled that he had been identified with the military aspect of the organization from January 1951 to June 1952, and said NATO defensive capabilities were more apparent to him than to others.

Moral has gone up, he added, and armaments have been accumulated and integrated; Greece and Turkey have become members.

Noting that it had been brought into being under United Nations authority, he said it had done a splendid job for all.

Later he said it was a mistake to look at NATO from the strictly military viewpoint, because its economic and social work had permitted understanding throughout Western Europe.

Asked about the demand of the Icelandic Parliament that the American forces there under a NATO arrangement be withdrawn, the President said things like this were to be expected under the changed Soviet technique.

He said he had not given his personal attention to this question and that it was being studied by the NATO Council in Paris.

It is easy to understand, he observed, why a country of only 165,000 inhabitants would notice foreign troops while troops 10 times that size would not be noticed in a country as large as France.

He said he had visited Iceland several times and believed its problems could be worked out.

Asked whether the strategic value of Iceland had diminished, he said that was a question that ought to be studied.

Another reporter wanted to know how long the quarter of a million American troops would be stationed in the NATO countries overseas.

The President said when NATO was established it was an emergency thing, that European forces were to be built up. He added, somewhat reluctantly.

He replied gravely that he had made it a deliberate policy to stay away from such tests because his chief interest was in the peaceful use of atomic and thermonuclear power. He said many people might think that as the commander-in-chief of the armed forces he should witness the weapons tests, but that his advisers had concluded that this was not necessary because the reports were quite comprehensive.

Another reporter asked a double question. Whether Russian observers would be permitted to witness the tests next month in the Pacific and why the newspaper and other coverage had been limited to 15 percent.

He did not answer the first part but said he thought the time had come when representatives of the news media should be authorized to report on the tests.

He added, however, that many American officials and scientists thought it necessary that they see the tests and this has caused some limitations because of the lack of adequate accommodations aboard the ships in that area.

He remarked that the differences were simpler; that the Russians want a disarmament agreement first and the United States wants a guarantee of performance before it makes an agreement.

He said the Russians had brought out a proposal for inspection of key military posts, ports and other areas in reply to his "open skies" inspection plan.

We have told the Russians, he said, that if they will accept our plan for aerial inspection we will accept their plan for inspection of key posts.

He said there must be an agreement for a trial period at least of an inspection plan before the United States would agree to any disarmament proposal.

ISRAELI SHOT AT BORDER BY JORDAN TROOPS

He Was Trying to Cross Into Demilitarized Zone, Arab Legion Charges.

AMAN, Jordan, April 4 (AP)—Jordan soldiers shot an Israeli who attempted to cross into the demilitarized zone from Jaffa gate in Jerusalem, an Arab Legion spokesman said today.

It was not known whether the Israeli was killed because other Israelis pulled him back into Israeli territory, the spokesman said.

The Israeli-Jordan mixed Armistice Commission condemned Jordan for an attack last Friday night by Jordan irregulars on Israeli road traffic. One Israeli was wounded in the clash.

An Israeli Foreign Ministry spokesman at Jerusalem said that after a six-hour session the commission adopted a resolution submitted by the Israel delegation which described the attack as an "unprovoked act of aggression."

Several vehicles were ambushed midnight Friday by infiltrators from Jordan on the Wadi Arra road near Jenin.

At Gaza, an Egyptian military spokesman reported an exchange of fire lasting four hours between Israeli and Egyptian posts near Deir El Balah, south of Gaza, today.

The spokesman said there were no casualties. He said the Israelis opened fire with automatic weapons and continued intermittently until a United Nations observer intervened.

In a stipulation, the firms agreed that Caseyville lines would not pick up passengers farther downtown than Fifty-first street in East St. Louis and outbound busses of the line would not pick up passengers before reaching Fifty-first street.

At the same time, East St. Louis City Lines withdrew its opposition to the proposed new Caseyville Lines route between Edgemont and East St. Louis. The agreement must be approved by the commission before the new route is approved. Pending before the commission is a citation against Industrial Bus Lines Inc., for failure to provide service for the Edgemont area after being granted authority to do so.

tions of "interdependence" with France still to be defined. Spain has been intensively cultivating the Moslem countries for nearly 10 years in hopes of setting itself up as a link between the West and the Middle East. A friendly Morocco may bring Franco big dip-

23 Algerian Rebels Killed by French Forces.

Algiers, April 4 (AP)—French forces killed 23 Algerian rebels and seized large amounts of arms and ammunition in a clash last night in Azerou Mbechar village, near Constantine. French casualties were not reported.

Other outbreaks brought the toll to 35 killed in Algeria and Morocco and three in South Tunisia.

Troops continued to pour into Algeria in France's stepped up drive to put down the rebellion. Four thousand soldiers were due today. The air force said a squadron of jet fighters would arrive from France by Saturday.

Rebels raided a farm near Azerou Mbechar in the night and killed six Algerian farmhands and two French soldier guards. A patrol drove off the attackers, killing three. Before fleeing, the rebels cut off the head of a wounded soldier, survivors said.

In South Tunisia, a band of about 40 rebels dressed in khaki set fire to a truck, bus and automobile and kidnapped the three drivers and a passenger. Two of the drivers were French, the other two men seized were Tunisians. The bodies of the three drivers were found a few hours later. Their throats had been cut.

The fresh troops were coming on three ships, two from French West Africa and one from France. The aircraft carrier Dixmude was carrying Sengalese troops from West Africa.

EGYPT AND SYRIA FAVOR MIDEAST PEACE MISSION

Approval by Arabs Now
Assured—U.N. Council Nearly Ready to Vote.

By ALVIN H. GOLDSTEIN
A Staff Correspondent of the Post-Dispatch.

UNITED NATIONS, N.Y.—April 4—Egypt and Syria told the United Nations Security Council today they approved the United States proposal for U.N. Secretary General Dag Hammarskjold to consult personally with Arab and Israeli governments in an effort to insure compliance with armistice agreements and preserve peace in the Middle East.

The formal statements by Omar Noutfi of Egypt and Ahmad Shukairy of Syria assured Arab approval of the peace mission by Hammarskjold contemplated in the resolution.

Each assured the council that his government had no aggressive intentions and pledged cooperation with Hammarskjold and the UN Truce Commission. Two other Arab representatives attending the debate gave the same assurances.

Outcome Objective.

Shukairy declared emphatically that it should be the objective of the Secretary General to determine the extent of truce violations and to "liquidate" them. He said it was widely known that there were flagrant and long-standing breaches.

Israel welcomed the United States proposal yesterday.

Russian amendments to the resolution were strongly opposed by American Ambassador Henry Cabot Lodge Jr., although they would alter only the phraseology of the document and not its purpose. Arab speakers yesterday said they did not oppose the Hammarskjold tour if his survey was limited to means of enforcement of existing truce terms.

Lodge said the Soviet amendments were not only unnecessary "but most particularly undesirable." He was particularly vexed by the Soviet effort to substitute the word "unsatisfactory" for conditions described in his paper as "endangering international peace and security."

Addressed to Danger.

The United States resolution was "addressed to a clear and present danger," he said, recalling that the governments directly concerned in the Middle East friction had indicated during the debate the resolution was acceptable as written. The Soviet spokesman also declared Moscow agreed it was "acceptable to all parties concerned."

The Middle East regional representative on the 11-nation council, Djalal Abdoh of Iran, repeated his support of the American proposal. He said, however, that although it was proper to take steps to prevent an eruption, it was wrong to exaggerate the gravity of the situation and speak of the imminence of war.

The Russian delegate invoked resentful retorts from United States, British and French spokesmen by referring to "press reports" which, he said, disclosed that the West planned armed intervention in the event of war in the Middle East. He referred to newspaper accounts setting forth that Britain intended such military action and that the United States Sixth fleet was in the Mediterranean and had been reinforced by Marines.

Chided by Others.

He was prominently chided by British, American and French statesmen for exceeding the limits of the debate. They limited themselves to denials that unilateral action was contemplated in the Middle East.

In his address to the council, Abba S. Eban, the Israeli representative, said his government always had urged extensive use of the secretary general for examination of international tensions. He thought more was needed than contemplated in the United States resolution, but considered a constructive step toward peace.

He expressed the hope that Hammarskjold would determine if all armistice conditions had been met by the governments involved in the hostilities and whether "all were aware of the mandatory obligation under the truce agreements requiring conferences and review." He thought he should determine the extent of armed forces constituting violations.

FESTUS DRIVER IS CRUSHED TO DEATH BY OWN AUTO

Curtis M. Reeder of Festus was killed yesterday when his automobile collided with another machine in Lindbergh Boulevard, north of Olive Street road, St. Louis county, and he was crushed in a ditch by the front wheel of his own car.

The other automobile, police said, was driven by Lonnie B. Robinson, 5335 Hamilton Avenue. Officers said Robinson's car skidded on a curve into Reeder's machine, forcing it off the road. Reeder was 53 years old. Robinson, 51, was not hurt.

TRUMAN ACCUSES DULLES OF GIVING FALSE OPTIMISM

Tells Overseas Correspondents Bold New Foreign Aid Program Is Needed.

NEW YORK, April 4 (AP)—Former President Truman accused the Eisenhower Administration last night of giving the people a falsely optimistic picture of the United States position in the cold war.

Administration leaders, he said, have been "telling the American people only what seems to be politically expedient at the moment."

Truman said a Communist strategy was more dangerous than at any time since the end of World War II, but that Secretary of State Dulles "tells us that Soviet policy has already failed, and is bankrupt."

Press Club Speaker.

Truman delivered his attack on Republican conduct of foreign affairs as guest speaker at the annual awards dinner of the Overseas Press Club.

He called for a "bold, new program for foreign economic aid" to meet Soviet economic and political penetration of foreign countries.

Accusing Dulles of complacency in the face of recent Russian moves, Truman said:

"The Eisenhower Administration's premature claims of success may well be the bar that prevents actual achievement of success . . . the fantasies of the Secretary of State make it all the more necessary for others to see things through."

Truman said the Administration has asked "far too little rather than too much" in increased foreign aid.

"In fact," he said, "it appears doubtful if the Administration comprehends at all the magnitude of the Soviet economic challenge or has any conception of a program adequate to meet it."

The only foreign economic program this Administration has ever had is the one inherited from us. They have administered it badly and allowed it to wither away in some important respects. But they have tried—after a fashion—to carry on our old program.

Urge New Program.

"While it is said that imitation is the sincerest form of flattery, I wish with all my heart that the Eisenhower Administration would stop flattering us and develop something new to meet new conditions."

Truman said "it seems plain" the United States will have to export capital "on a very considerable scale" if the people from North Africa to Indonesia are to achieve economic development as free and independent nations.

"If we do not help them, the Russians will," he said. "But we must make it plain to these peoples that we do not seek to limit their freedom by commitments of any sort."

Truman expressed doubt the Administration would get from Congress "even as much foreign aid as it has asked for. And it is the Administration's own fault, because it has not been frank with the American people."

Truman said a Communist

AUSTRALIA WON'T LET U.S. SENATORS QUESTION PETROV

CANBERRA, April 4 (UP)—

The Australian Government said today a Russian secret agent who received asylum here will not go to the United States to tell what he knows about two British diplomats who defected to the Soviet Union.

An official statement said

Vladimir Petrov, one-time Soviet Embassy official here, instead would make a sworn declaration about his knowledge of Britons Guy Burgess and Donald Maclean for a United States Senate subcommittee.

The statement said Petrov wished to remain in Australia and since the Government had guaranteed his safety, it would accede to his wishes.

The Senate Internal Security subcommittee invited the former chief of the Soviet secret police in Australia to testify in its investigation of whether Burgess and Maclean gave American defense secrets to Russia.

Petrov, granted political asylum by the Australian Government in 1954, disclosed to a royal commission investigating espionage here that Burgess and Maclean were in Russia. That was before the two British diplomats appeared in public in Moscow themselves.

FARES UP TOMORROW

City Lines to Charge Adults
15 Cents, Children and Fares on busses operated by East St. Louis City Lines will be increased tomorrow, the company announced today.

Adult fares will be 15 cents, an increase of two cents, and children and students will pay 10 cents a ride, an increase of five cents.

Tokens will be sold to children and students at the rate of four for 30 cents. Adults will no longer be able to obtain tokens, which were sold at the straight rate of five for 65 cents.

The company said it was notified yesterday that the Illinois

Commerce Commission had approved its application for an increase in fares expected to increase annual revenue by $22,000. At a hearing before the commission in February, the transit firm said it had a decline in passenger revenue while employees' salaries had increased.

CUBAN ARMY BLOCKS PLOT AGAINST BATISTA

20 Officers Arrested As Ringleaders—Former Colonel Seized.

HAVANA, Cuba, April 4 (AP)—The Cuban army said last night it had thwarted a conspiracy against President Batista with the arrest of ringleader officers at suburban Camp Columbia.

Batista made a quick visit to the military camp and returned to the presidential palace two hours later. Two machine guns guarded the palace entrance.

"The conspiracy had not the slightest importance," Batista said. "We followed it very closely since it started and it never gained any importance."

Crackdown Delayed.

Gen. Francisco Tabernilla, chief of staff, said military intelligence had uncovered the conspiracy several months ago. He said officials delayed a crackdown "to avoid implicating persons who had no relation with it."

It was learned that more than 20 officers had been arrested. Tabernilla said the conspirators sought to win army officers to their cause by saying Batista planned to resign and leave in control a military junta subject to his orders. The conspirators contended that the purpose of Batista's switch was to extend indefinitely his reign without facing an election, the army said.

After the arrests, Batista was driven around the army camp

No Emergency Measures.
The government proclaimed no emergency measures and did not institute censorship.

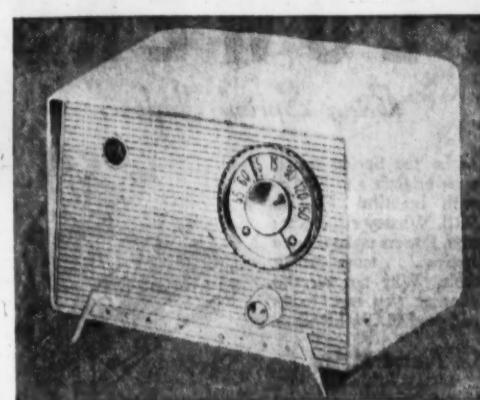

A former army colonel, Oscar Diaz, was accused by the government two weeks ago of being a leader of a conspiracy. He was reported under arrest last night. It was reported Diaz surrendered to the army chief of staff, Gen. Francisco Tabernilla.

The arrest of Diaz was said to have led to discovery of the plot.

As soon as the government learned of the plot, authorities took measures to prevent radio broadcasts from giving news of it.

The city was quiet last night and the public seemed to be unaware that anything unusual was going on.

BOND ISSUE BILL FOR $59,100,000 PASSED BY HOUSE

Funds for Colleges and Eleemosynary Institutions OK'd by 124-0 Vote.

By EDWARD H. THORNTON A Staff Correspondent of the Post-Dispatch.

JEFFERSON CITY, April 4—A bill to appropriate $59,100,000 for state universities, colleges and eleemosynary institutions was passed by the House today by a vote of 124 to 0 and sent to the Senate.

Also approved by the House, again by a 124-0 vote, was a catch-all appropriation measure to provide funds recommended by Gov. Phil M. Donnelly to meet operational deficits of several departments and agencies of the state government. Both bills were debated yesterday and were passed today without discussion.

The first bill would appropriate $36,365,200 for the universities and colleges and $22,734,800 for the eleemosynary institutions. It completes House action on allocation of the $75,000,000 state bonding bill issue approved by voters in January.

List of Allocation. A list of the institutions and the amounts they are allocated in the bill follows:

University of Missouri, $17,533,200; School of Mines and Metallurgy at Rolla, $3,540,000; Northeast Missouri State Teachers College at Kirksville, $2,530,000; Northeast Missouri State College, Maryville, $2,315,000.

Central Missouri State College, Warrensburg, $3,460,000; Southeast Missouri State College, Cape Girardeau, $2,780,000; Southwest Missouri State College, Springfield, $2,800,000; Lincoln University, Jefferson City, $1,407,000.

Ellis Fischel State Cancer Hospital, Columbia, $5,000; Federal Soldiers Home, St. James, $175,000; State Hospital No. 1, Fulton, $2,126,000; State Hospital No. 2, St. Joseph, $1,425,000; State Hospital No. 3, Nevada, $2,450,000.

State Hospital No. 4, Farmington, $2,000,000; Missouri State School for the feeble-minded and epileptics at Marshall, Carrollton and Highville, $2,123,000; St. Louis State Training School, $1,690,000; Missouri School for the Deaf, Fulton, $2,440,000, and Missouri School for the Blind, St. Louis, $750,000.

Catch-All Bill Changed. The catch-all measure would appropriate $1,810,599 from general revenue and other state funds. It was amended on the floor to reduce the total amount from $2,201,099, the entire cut being in the amount allocated for expenses of the current special session.

Meanwhile, the Senate scheduled its first night meeting of the special session for tonight. Senator Floyd R. Gibson (Dem.), Independence, majority leader, said the meeting was called because of a possibility that Gov. Donnelly might send a special message broadening the work of the Legislature. Donnelly had earlier wanted to talk to other officials about fire damage at Fulton State Hospital before deciding whether to issue a special message.

During House debate on the $59,100,000 measure yesterday, two minor amendments were adopted and a series of amendments aimed at reapportionment of the money was defeated when members of the powerful House Appropriations committee presented a united front against changing their recommendations.

One of the unsuccessful amendments would have cut $1,000,000 from the $6,000,000 proposed allotment for St. Louis State Hospital and would have distributed it among the universities and colleges.

In advancing the catch-all appropriation bill, the House, in addition to cutting the legislative expense allotment, added a section providing for appropriation of $2500 for expenses of a proposed commission to select a site for location of a medium security prison, if one is built.

A measure providing for creation of such a commission is pending in the Senate.

Following a brief Senate session yesterday, Senator John W. Noble (Dem.), Kennett, chairman of the Senate Appropriations Committee, said the group would hold a series of formal hearings here next week on proposed allocation of the bond issue funds among eligible institutions.

His committee this week is completing its tour of the state institutions which requested allotments of the bond funds.

PRESIDENT HINTS HE WOULD SIGN FARM COMPROMISE

cent for Mr. Eisenhower, who had slight opposition. Dissatisfaction among farmers is expected to be a major issue in the November election.

Mr. Eisenhower said he would not try to interpret the primary because he had not seen the figures. He said he understood there had been a heavy turnout in spite of the bad weather and that this was a cause for gratification.

Going into a general discussion of the farm situation, Mr. Eisenhower said it would be idle to say the farmer has no problems, that farmers have had many, many problems for a long time, ever since rigid price supports, too long continued, built excessive surplus stocks.

With Secretary of Agriculture Ezra Taft Benson, Mr. Eisenhower said, he worked out a complete program and put it before Congress as soon as possible. He recalled he asked for immediate action on the bill. The measure has not been brought to a vote, he said, and has been altered by many amendments, some clumsy, some even worse. Whether it will help the farmers is problematical, he said.

Mr. Eisenhower said he was interested in helping farmers now and for a long term, and that while it was too late for the soil bank to do much good this year it was not too late for other proposals in the legislation. He conceded the farmers have a right to be somewhat bewildered by the farm situation but said they are sensible and know the Administration is trying to do the best it can for the good of the whole country.

About midway in the conference a reporter asked the President to comment on the Wisconsin primary, which he already had declined to do. With a laugh, the President said the reporter must have been asleep. He added he is always a little astonished when a voter puts a cross beside his name on a ballot, but is always thankful.

RED PARTY EMPLOYEES LOSE SOCIAL SECURITY

Nine Old Age Pensions
Cancelled—VA Cuts Off
Aid to 3 Communists.

WASHINGTON, April 4 (AP)—The Social Security Administration said yesterday it has cut off monthly old-age benefits which nine persons had earned as employees of the Communist party.

A spokesman said some of the nine still draw social security benefits, however, because of wage credits on their records from other employers.

He said that under the law the names of the nine could not be revealed by the administration but that some had been informed some had made public statements personally or through attorneys concerning the social security action.

He identified these as William

Z. Foster, 75 years old, chairman of the Communist party; Jacob Mindel, also 75, and Alexander Bittleman, 65.

In New York, a party spokesman added these four names to the list of those losing their pensions: Mindel's wife, Rebecca, and Alfred Wagenknecht, 81, Amher, widow of Israel Amher, deceased Red leader.

Bittleman is serving a prison term following conviction of violations of the Smith Act which prohibits knowingly advocating the overthrow of the government by force and violence.

The spokesman recalled the agency ruled last fall that persons employed by the Communist party and its affiliates are not eligible for old-age benefits.

At that time, a spokesman said cognizance had been taken of a ruling by the Subversive Activities Control Board that the Communist party in the United States and its identifiable affiliates are agencies of a foreign government. The Communist party has appealed that ruling to the Supreme Court.

A spokesman for the Veterans Administration said that agency has cut off disability compensation payments to three Communists convicted of violating the Smith Act.

He identified the three as: Robert G. Thompson, New York, who had been drawing $150 a month; Saul Weillman, Detroit,

St. LOUIS POST-DISPATCH Wed., April 4, 1956 17A who had received $109 a month, and Robert Klonsky, Philadelphia, who had drawn $15 a month.

PRESIDENT PICKS UNIT TO FOSTER SCIENCE STUDY

More Highly Qualified Technological Manpower for U.S.

The New York Times News Service.
(Copyright, 1956, by the New York Times Co.)

WASHINGTON, April 4—President Eisenhower established yesterday a new national committee for the development of scientists and engineers whose job will be to "foster the development of more highly qualified technological manpower."

The 19-man committee is composed of leaders in science, engineering, education, state and local government, management, labor and the humanities.

The President said American technological superiority "is now seriously challenged by those who use science for aggression and conquest." Formation of the new committee, he said, resulted from the report of a special interdepartmental study group under the chairmanship of Dr. Arthur S. Flemming, director of defense mobilization.

Citizen Responsibility.
That group, the President said, "recognized that although the Government has a responsibility for increasing the supply and improving the quality of our technological personnel, the basic responsibility for solution of the problem lies in the concerted action of citizens and citizens' groups organized to act effectively."

Mr. Eisenhower named Dr. Howard Landis Bevis, president of Ohio State University, as chairman of the new committee and Dr. Eric A. Walker, dean of the college of engineering and architecture at Pennsylvania State University, as vice chairman. Members include Dr. J. Lester Buford, Mount Vernon, Ill., president of the National Education Association.

In a letter to Dr. Bevis, the President said he expected the new group to perform these functions:

"1. Assist the Federal Government in identifying the problems associated with the development of more highly qualified scientists and engineers."

"2. Enlist the co-operation of all interested individuals and groups in analyzing the problem and developing programs to deal with it, and to take the lead in co-ordination of interested organizations outside the Federal Government."

"3. Make available to all interested organizations information on effective ways of overcoming the obstacles to the training of more qualified scientists and engineers."

"4. Publicize the problem and possible solutions in order to stimulate widespread public understanding and support."

"5. Provide me, from time to time, with a report of progress."

Soviet Gaina Noted.

Recently a subcommittee of the Congressional Joint Atomic Energy committee issued a report which found that the Soviet Union already has more scientists and engineers available than the United States and is graduating more than twice as many additional ones each year as the United States.

By the Associated Press.
In a separate statement, the President said technological leadership "carries the inherent responsibility before the world of using technology to help all peoples achieve a better life through the development of their resources for the good of all mankind."

He added that "how we do this will require the most intensive effort in all fields of learning."

The President said Americans "have unique technological ability to use science for the strengthening of our country's defense against aggression and for the application of our material resources to the improvement of human living."

JERSEY TO SEEK STATE EMPLOYES IN U.S. COLLEGES

The New York Times News Service.
(Copyright, 1956, by the New York Times Co.)

TRENTON, April 4—New Jersey henceforth will recruit the bulk of its state employees from the graduating classes of colleges and universities throughout the country.

In the next three months alone a comprehensive drive will be undertaken to fill in this manner 1500 anticipated vacancies.

The new employment program, initiated by Gov. Robert B. Meyner, calls for the continuous dispatching of state civil service representatives to college campuses to find qualified undergraduates and induce them to join the state government. Officials here believe that this is the first time any state has adopted such a long-range program.

The large number of employees needed at this time stems from mass retirements begun last week and expected to continue through June 30.

A new law is so worded that state employees eligible for pensions, by retiring now and obtaining private employment for three months, may collect social security benefits in addition to their pensions.

ANTI-BEER CAN CRUSADE

HEACHAM, England, April 4
(UPI)—Mrs. V. Torrey is conducting a personal crusade against beer cans tossed by American G.I.s.

She has collected three sacks fulls of cans and sent them back to the United States air base at Sculthorpe. She says the beer containers are "dangerous and unsightly."

CHILDS

Symington's Air Force Inquiry
Likely to Be Tagged Political Maneuver by His Opponents

Senator Has Long Criticized Administration Air Policy, but Possibility
He Will Be Compromise Presidential Candidate Makes Task Delicate.

By MARQUIS W. CHILDS
A Washington Correspondent of the Post-Dispatch.

(Copyright, 1956, The Pulitzer Publishing Co.)

WASHINGTON, April 4.

Y one of those coincidences which the cynical will conclude is no coincidence at all but very shrewd timing, just as his name is more and more frequently mentioned as a compromise candidate for the Democratic presidential nomination, Senator Stuart Symington of Missouri is about to start an investigation into the Air Force and the charge that this country is lagging behind the Soviet Union in air power.

As chairman of the Senate investigating committee, Symington will be walking a narrow and hazardous path. He will be dealing with a matter involving in the most direct and immediate way America's security.

Both Symington and Senator Henry H. Jackson (Dem.), Washington, who will serve with him on the subcommittee, have charged that this country is rapidly falling behind Soviet Russia in the development of guided missiles. While they have not spoken with complete frankness, high ranking Air Force officers have suggested that the Strategic Air Command, the retaliatory striking force that is considered America's first line of defense, has been weakened by the budget-balancing economies of the Eisenhower Administration.

Any investigation into such grave charges that has the look of politics will plainly backfire, but at the same time the committee must do a thorough job regardless of the political implications in a presidential year.

Symington's Background.

As the first Secretary for Air under unification of the services beginning in 1947, Symington has a broad knowledge of air power. He fought some of the early battles for the Strategic Air Command and privately, at least, he opposed the spending of hundreds of millions on giant aircraft carriers.

In Fowler Hamilton the subcommittee has chosen an able counsel. During World War II he was chief of the operational analysis section of the Air Force.

By another coincidence, the air hearings will start at about the time that Trevor Gardner will let loose a new blast at Administration policy which he says is resulting in a "second best" Air Force for the United States. Gardner resigned as special assistant secretary for air in charge of research and development after publicly arguing the need for much larger appropriations both for research and missile development.

He has written two articles for a national magazine telling in detail why he believes present policies are bound to result in a "second best" Air Force and why he could not stay on as assistant secretary and accept the consequences. Both articles have been reviewed for security and cleared by the Department of Defense although they are said to pull no punches. Gardner is still nominally, at least, a consultant to Secretary of Defense Charles E. Wilson.

Ideas on Missile 'Czar.'

Kefauver Looks to 'New South'
Of Industry, Modern Agriculture

Blunt Challenge to His Native Region
Takes Play Away From Stevenson,
Also Helps Him in the North.

By DORIS FLEESON

WASHINGTON.

SENATOR ESTES KEFAUVER has cast his lot with "the New South."

The Tennessean's challenge to his native region to adopt a liberal attitude toward the anti-segregation policy of the Supreme Court is both far-sighted and shrewd. He has little to lose, since Southern conservatives oppose him anyway, and he has immeasurably strengthened himself in the North and among the pivotal states.

He has taken the play away from Adlai Stevenson, who takes the same view of the court's decision but has attempted to act the part of conciliator. Kefauver achieved drama because he is himself a Southerner, because he made his "New South" appeal at his takeoff in the Florida primary and because he took the offensive in plain language.

One admirer said here: "He has talked sense to the South," a paraphrase of Stevenson's own "talk sense to the American people" which electrified the 1952 Democratic convention.

Where His Hopes Lie.

The strictly Southern angle of the story is that Kefauver's hopes for votes there now rest with people favorably affected by industrialization of the South and the diversification of its agriculture, with business and labor and the increasing number of voting Negroes in Southern cities.

These people have been shaken in their stability and prospects for a more abundant life by the violence of the segregation campaign. They have been slow to raise their voices and no national figure of

Taylor Calls
Nike Adequate
Against Planes

It Also Downs

Navy Announces

WASHINGTON, April 4.

GEN. MAXWELL D. TAYLOR, Army chief of staff, said yesterday the Nike anti-aircraft guided missile is effective against any "currently operational aircraft," regardless of height and speed.

In a luncheon speech at the National Press Club Taylor said that Nike I was also effective against every type of drone and missile "made available to it as targets." He added that Nike B, the newest version of the missile now emplaced around major cities and industrial areas, anticipated the capabilities of "even higher performance aircraft."

The Army and the Air Force are now engaged in a dispute over the anti-aircraft missile role. Recently the Air Force announced it would employ the Talos ground-to-air missile when it comes off the production line for defense of strategic targets within the United States. The Talos is expected to have a longer range than the Nike.

The Air Force contends that the Talos would supplement the interceptor role of fighter aircraft while the Nike is used for close-in defense of targets.

Questioned About Missile.

In a question period Taylor was asked why the Army was interested in a ballistic missile with a 1500-mile range. The Army's Redstone is expected to attain this range, which the Air Force considers to be in the interceptor category.

Taylor replied he "would argue very vehemently against being ruled out" in the development of such a weapon until someone decides what it can do. He remarked that if such a weapon had been available in World War II it could have been fired from North Africa to support troop landings in Europe.

When the Russians flew their security chief, Gen. Ivan A. Serov, to London in a jet transport plane, a civilian version of the TU-104 bomber, British air experts were dismayed. Taylor said the Army was not trying to develop its own Air Corps or to take over the tactical air support role from the Air Force. He added that the Army wants the Air Force to keep this role, but that the Air Force "should put its heart in the work and give us the best."

Meanwhile, the Navy announced that the Petrel, a powerful ship-destroying guided missile, has joined the United States fleet.

The Navy said the Petrel filled out the family of missiles that are now operational in the fleet and listed four: the Petrel, air-to-surface; Sparrow, air-to-air; Regulus, surface-to-surface; and Terrier, surface-to-air.

Enclosed in plastic coating which will protect them from salt spray and moisture, jet fighter craft are secured in tight formation on flight deck of the carrier Tripoli for shipment to overseas bases. Use of the new missile thus will save the plane pilot from the anti-aircraft hazards which attack plane aviators met in World War II when they closed on the target."

R. Adm. F. S. Withington, Chief of the Bureau of Ordnance, said the Petrel has an electronic brain which "thinks" it is really a civil war if it is a real war. It was developed by the Bureau of Standards under technical direction of the Bureau of Ordnance and is being produced by the Fairchild Engine & Airplane Corp.

Arab Legion

Officer Says

Lt. Col. Ali Abou Nawar asserts Jordan won't start war.

By RICHARD DUDMAN

A Staff Correspondent of the Post-Dispatch.

AMMAN, April 4.

THE Arab Legion will not start a war, but it is "keen to fight" if anyone else starts one, one of the Legion's top officers told the Post-Dispatch.

The officer, Lt. Col. Ali Abou Nawar, said:

"We are not going to start a world war. But if someone else starts it, let them all go to hell. We don't care."

Col. Abou Nawar has risen rapidly since King Hussein's dismissal of Lt. Gen. John Bagot Glubb a month ago as head of the Legion. His position is like that of an American assistant chief of staff for operations.

The thirty-three-year-old officer was Jordan's military attaché in Paris until he was brought back last Nov. 16 as senior aide-de-camp to King Hussein. After Glubb's dismissal he first was made a commander of one of the Legion's three brigades and then promoted to his present position.

His closeness to the King has led many to consider him the strong man of the reorganized Legion, and an opponent of the Baghdad pact and a supporter of closer co-operation with Egypt.

He denied vehemently that he favored closer ties with Iraq on the one hand or the Egypt-Syria-Saudi Arabia bloc on the other. He said:

"We stand independent. We are standing with all the Arab countries without distinction or preference."

In a further effort to bring out his personal leanings, Abou Nawar was asked whether he believed Jordan should "turn its face toward Egypt or Iraq." He replied:

"We are facing Israel. Any one who is facing the same way is our friend."

He expressed certainty that Israel is planning to attack Jordan. Israel already has called up 70 per cent of its army reserves, he says, and Israeli reconnaissance planes make daily flights over Jordanian territory, sometimes as

Britain Expects Jordan Coup
And Is Prepared to Fight to Protect Middle East Interests

Cabinet Decides to Intervene if Civil War Starts—Possible Impact on Iraq Prompts Decision — Lead by U.S. Would Be Welcomed.

By JOSEPH ALSOP

LONDON.

IN THE ABSENCE of any clear lead from Washington, the present British government has been making up its own mind about what to do if worst comes to worst in the Middle East. The resolve is to fight if need be, and even against heavy odds.

As already reported, for example, the situation in Jordan is regarded here as immediately critical. In Jordan, King Hussein's abrupt dismissal of Gen. Sir John Bagot Glubb has opened the way to a pro-Egyptian, anti-Western coup which would depose King Hussein in favor of a young officers' junta like the one that now rules Egypt.

Faced with this possibility, the British Cabinet has sought to keep the situation in hand by continuing its subsidy to Jordan despite the humiliation of Gen. Glubb's dismissal. None the less, the odds are thought here to be rather heavy that a coup in Jordan will be attempted soon.

Circumstances are favorable in view of the leanings of the present Jordanian cabinet, the changes in command in the Arab Legion since Gen. Glubb's enforced departure, and the growing of Communist penetration. British Will Intervene.

Faced with this likelihood of the real motive of the British desire to protect the position in Iraq at almost any cost. Iraq itself is a major oil producer. A defeat in Iraq would produce immediate danger in neighboring oil-rich Iran, which was so narrowly saved from the Communist Tudeh party only a few years ago.

What is chiefly feared in London, in short, is the stage loss of the oil source, which are the true lifeblood of these islands. The gravity of the British view is clearly suggested by another conditional resolve that has been taken here. If anything else in the Middle East goes, the British government means to hold the sheikdom of Kuwait by naked force if need be.

Enough Oil in Kuwait.

This last ditch policy is practical though unattractive. The population of Kuwait is not large enough to resist effectively. Kuwait alone has enough oil, if the tap is turned on a little harder, to meet the needs of Britain and Western Europe for a good many years to come.

LETTERS FROM THE PEOPLE

The Chiefs Say 'No'

To the Editor of the Post-Dispatch:
The Post-Dispatch of March 31 carried a story about deputation of four St. Louis county police departments as county police. In it Police Supt. Adalbert Dubois was quoted as saying that although a number of municipal departments had expressed interest in deputation, only four "had received authorization."

The story clearly implied to me that many departments were clamoring to be deputized, but had not yet met proper standards for deputation.

Nothing could be further from the truth. Recently I myself talked with the police chiefs of 15 county municipalities and I asked them if they were interested in having their departments deputized. Two said they were interested, three didn't know and 10 chiefs told me that they definitely did not want their departments deputized.

These 10 gave a variety of reasons for not being interested. Some felt it would do them no good, others saw in this program possible encroachment from Mr. Dubois' department.

The plain truth of the matter is that only four local departments have been deputized because none of the others want to be deputized. Maybe they ought to want to be deputized, but they don't. And neither Mr. Dubois nor the Post-Dispatch can make them want to.

GEORGE B. COLEMAN,
Brentwood.

One and the Same

To the Editor of the Post-Dispatch:
The under-the-cartoon feature in Sunday's Post-Dispatch included representative views from the press of nine religions, including both "Catholic" and "Jesuit." I am sure St. Ignatius and his present-day followers who edit America would be equally shocked by your differentiation.

Maplewood. TIM HANLON.

From a Boston Terrier

To the Editor of the Post-Dispatch:
I was disposed to pass over Reader Gale's earlier impertinences to my breed, but this continued carping on the 10-pound-lapdog canard cannot pass unchallenged here.

I agree with all that people say of Boston Terriers: we are loyal, brave, intelligent, thrifty, reverent, sweet-smelling and so on.

My three predecessors in this job each weighed more than 20 pounds. As for myself, I have more registered quartering than my master and, I suspect, Mr. Gale, though 30 pounds, am still growing.

I don't know your physical dimensions, Mr. Gale, but I'd like to try your lap for size. AKC N-219272.

The Fringe on Top

To the Editor of the Post-Dispatch:
I have no objection to the barbers charging $1.75 for a flat-top hair cut, if a job like that takes considerable time and puts an undue strain on the hair cutter. But what about us old boys with nothing to cut but a little fringe around the edge that takes very little time? Any one who has ever sheared a mule's tail can give us a fairly good job. With flat-tops at $1.75 and regulars at $1.50 I believe that the fringe-cut should be lower.

V. W. STERNBERG.

It Glows in the Dark

To the Editor of the Post-Dispatch:
In your editorial, "Refrigerators Safe for Children," you point out that the Admiral Corp. has introduced an electric refrigerator which can be opened from the inside so that children who playfully crawl in would not be trapped. You also stated that since this is a push button which must be known about and located in order to be used, it is probably not a complete answer in the case of very small children.

We would like to point out that the Admiral Corp. has thought of this and the Life Guard, as it is called, is made of green luminous material and glows brightly in the dark and is at a height approximately two feet from the bottom of the refrigerator. It is the thought of Admiral that a child would naturally reach and touch anything glowing in the darkness.

We hope that the feature in the Admiral Dual-Temp refrigerator will be copied by the rest of the industry. The safety of our children is certainly worth the time of all of us, even a company as large as Admiral.

B. ERLICH,
Manager, Appliances,
Brightman Distributing Co.

The new General Electric refrigerator does not have a latch on the door at all nor does it have any push button on the inside of the door. If someone were on the inside of the refrigerator he could open the door by merely pushing against it.

We think this is definitely a safety-factor in our "magnetic door" refrigerator.

WAYNE CAIN,
Advertising Manager,
General Electric Appliances Co.

Parades Are Fun

To the Editor of the Post-Dispatch:
I have just read reader Charley Stookey's letter and it infuriated me beyond words. There's an old saying, "everybody loves a parade," which I think is very true. That parade last Saturday was enjoyed by quite a few people, myself included.

Other than being enjoyed by people, did Mr. Stookey realize that a parade did for handicapped children? A few thousand dollars were collected to give braces to a child who could not even go downtown, and to give a boy special therapy so he can be like his pals. SELMA McCRARY.

Record of Mr. Hoover Jr.

Herbert Hoover Jr. has been Under Secretary of State since October 1954—a period of about 18 months. During that time he has established what must be a new course record for foot-in-mouth diplomacy. His recent gyrations over Formosa-Red China trade are only the latest in an impressive series of bobbles and blunders, of which the high-spots were these:

1. Case of the Bandung Bloopers. During the Bandung conference (April 1955) when President Eisenhower was in seclusion at his farm and Secretary Dulles in seclusion on his island, China's Chou En-lai made a major speech in which he proposed direct talks with the United States to ease Far Eastern tensions. Mr. Hoover, firing from the hip in Washington, rebuffed this overture, to the great embarrassment of American policy in Asia. Secretary Dulles had to retract the rebuff as soon as he got back from his vacation, and the direct talks, which led to the freedom of American prisoners, were held at Geneva.

2. Case of the Premature Hosannah. When Chancellor Adenauer visited Moscow (Sept. 1955) and agreed to establish diplomatic relations with the Soviet Union, Mr. Hoover, again in charge of the State Department during a Dulles vacation, issued a statement bailing this event as a great triumph for Western diplomacy. As subsequent events made clear, the triumph, if any, accrued to the Soviet Union and not the West. Under heavy criticism for the excesses of its "amateur propagandists," the State Department quit talking about Bonn-Moscow relations as a victory for the West.

3. Case of the Stop-and-Go Tanks. This time (February 1956) President Eisenhower was shooting quail in Georgia and Secretary Dulles was basking in the Caribbean. Alone on the bridge, Mr. Hoover ran into a squall over the shipment of 18 tanks to Saudi Arabia. As public and congressional protests mounted, he embargoed the shipment; then, two days later, lifted the embargo and let it proceed, thus managing to execute maximum displeasure on both sides. Either the deal was defensible from the beginning, or not. As Chairman Richards of the House Foreign Affairs Committee said, it was bungling to let the affair become an international incident.

4. Case of the Vanishing Contraband. Trying to explain to a Senate committee why this country had agreed to relax the allied embargo on certain exports to Soviet countries, Mr. Hoover casually remarked that Nationalist China itself had shipped "quite a number of millions of dollars' worth of goods every year" to Red China. Senator McCarthy and other friends of Formosa flew to Chiang's defense. For a few hours, the State Department bravely tried to back up Mr. Hoover by issuing various sets of figures. But finally Mr. Hoover went back before the committee to testify that he had been all wrong: Formosa exports which might have found their way indirectly to mainland China in 1955 amounted, he said, to only $250,000.

The plain truth of the matter is that only four local departments have been deputized because none of the others want to be deputized. Maybe they ought to want to be deputized, but they don't. And neither Mr. Dubois nor the Post-Dispatch can make them want to.

THOMAS L. STOKES

Democrats Ready to Spurn Dixiecrats

THE SOUTH MIGHT AS WELL BE let in on a secret that may become the biggest single fact in its politics—and the politics of the national Democratic party—a long, long time. It is likely to happen this year, the ninety-sixth since Southern secession.

This is that the Yankee wing of the Democratic party, which casts the most votes and wins the party's elections, is just about ready to let the Confederate wing of the Democratic party, which makes the most noise, secede if it chooses—or do whatever it wants—with no more pampering. More and more you hear this suggested by Yankee Democrats in private conversation in the lobbies of the Capitol.

Turning the usual plaintive wail from their Southern brethren into reverse, they say elatedly in mock pique: "The South just doesn't understand us."

Yankee Patience Near End.

To try to correct the Southerners' misunderstanding of Yankee attitudes, it might be a fine idea if Southern newspapers sent reporters all through the North, just as reporters of Northern newspapers now are deployed all through the South in greater array than since their predecessors followed the armies of Union commanders McClellan, Polk, Burnside, Hooker, and Sherman into the South in the Civil War.

The patience of Yankee Democrats finally has been exhausted with the codding of the South every four years, with listening to inflammatory oratory always demanding special treatment, with the spectacle of Southern delegations holding rump sessions and then walking out of the convention in a huff.

Yankee Democrats allow that the martyr act has about run its course.

Furthermore, they have suddenly awakened to the fact—which has been apparent a long time—that the party can do without the South. It doesn't need Southern votes to win.

Example of F.D.R., Truman.

Franklin D. Roosevelt, for example, would have won every one of his four successive election triumphs without the support of a single Southern state.

Harry S. Truman lost four Southern states to the short-lived Dixiecrat movement in 1948 and still won over Gov. Thomas E. Dewey of New York. This he did by virtue of disengaging in the farm belt, similar to that of today, which threw more than enough Midwestern states into his column to offset loss of the Southern states.

HUGH CUTLER PROMOTED BY SHAW'S GARDEN BOARD

The advancement of Hugh C. Cutler from assistant director of Missouri Botanical (Shaw's) Garden to associate director was announced today by John S. Lehmann, president of the board of trustees.

As explained by Edgar Anderson, director of the garden, the change in title means that Cutler will now share executive responsibilities with the director and will have a part in initiating policies as well as in carrying them out.

Cutler received his doctorate in botany from the Henry Shaw School of Botany of Washington University in 1939 and joined Anderson in studying maize and its wild relatives in the United States, Mexico and Guatemala.

In World War II, he was one of a group of experts who revived the collecting and processing of rubber and latex in South America. After the war he continued studies in South America of plants used by modern and prehistoric peoples. He was curator of economic plants at the Chicago Museum of Natural History from 1947 to 1952, returning to the Garden in 1953.

ARTHUR WITMAN RE-ELECTED BY PRESS PHOTOGRAPHERS

Special to the Post-Dispatch
CHANDLER, Ariz., April 4—Arthur Witman, a Post-Dispatch Picture staff photographer, was re-elected president of the National Press Photographers Association at its annual convention here yesterday.

Charles Cooper of the Durban (N.C.) Herald-Sun was elected secretary and Nelson Tiffey of the Los Angeles Mirror-News, treasurer. All officers will serve two years.

Justice O. Otto Moore of the Colorado Supreme Court won the Joseph A. Sprague Memorial Award for his "open mindedness in reception of evidence supporting the news photographer's right to report court proceedings." His recommendation that cameras be allowed in courtrooms was adopted recently by the Colorado Supreme Court.

Mrs. McKanna, 35 years old, died Monday at a hospital in Farmington, Mo., where she had been a patient for about four years. Her husband died in October 1953. Surviving are a daughter, Miss Helen McKanna, and a stepson, William H. McKanna.

PROPOSES MERGING CATHOLIC COLLEGES

Msgr. Ellis Questions Contribution of Many Small Institutions.

Many smaller Catholic colleges should be merged, and duplication of work in larger Catholic universities should be eliminated, "to apply the axe to the undergrowth of educational mediocrity," Msgr. John Tracy Ellis asserted here today.

Conservative interests balked at many New Deal-Fair Deal reforms. These, however, finally were enacted, some after long delay, despite bitter and effective opposition by Southern members of Congress who found allies among Republicans.

Greater Than Dixie.

The civil rights issue, formerly embodied in the mere prospect of civil rights legislation still not enacted, is concentrated about an accomplished fact, the U.S. Supreme Court public school integration decision.

That has, at one and the same time, increased resentment among many Southerners and given Negroes everywhere a goal which they now are determined to realize.

The Yankee wing of the Democratic party recognizes that to run strong enough outside of the South to win a candidate must rely heavily on labor and minorities in big urban centers, including Negroes, and on farmers. It, therefore, cannot compromise on economic issues or civil rights to woo the South, for that would alienate elements elsewhere that are essential to victory.

Third Party, Not G.O.P.

But, by remaining progressive on economic issues, the party—or so the Yankee wing sees it—probably could hold many Southerners who are keenly interested in such issues, as was demonstrated in the way Harry Truman carried a number of Southern states.

Farmers and labor have become important factors in Southern elections.

Whatever the party can hold in the South would be counted a gain in the strategy being discussed by the Yankee wing. Their losses probably would be to third party like the 1948 Dixiecrat movement, rather than to the Republican party which offers no choice to segregationists.

The Yankee wing of the Democratic party is hopeful that it President Eisenhower calls a conference on the school integration problem, he hints, that it will include some Yankees. Democrats as well as Republicans, so they can try to explain themselves and their views to the Southerners.

They think they have a right to be recognized as a problem and to be understood, even as have the Southerners all these many years.

Arthur Hull Hayes, president of Columbia Broadcasting System Radio, told an all-Jesuit alumni dinner last night: "There is a need for men who have been taught how to think." He praised the society for teaching "that man is not just a machine, that he has a duty to God and to our fellow men."

He convention is being attended by about 8500 teachers, supervisors and administrators representing Catholic education from pre-school to graduate and professional levels.

FUNERAL TO BE TOMORROW FOR HENRY W. KLEIN SR.

Funeral services for Henry W. Klein Sr., president of Klein Manufacturing Co., a metal fabrication firm, will be at 2 p.m. tomorrow at Ascension Lutheran Church, 5347 Donovan avenue. Burial will be in Sunset Memorial Park.

Mr. Klein, 52 years old, died after a long illness Monday at Barnes Hospital. He was born in Offenbach, Germany, and came to St. Louis as a young man. After working here as a tool and die maker, he organized the manufacturing company in 1941. Mr. Klein, who lived at 112 Blackthorn drive, Afton, was treasurer of the Euclid Horst Society, a German literary group.

Surviving are his wife, Mrs. Anna Weinknecht Klein; a son, Henry W. Klein Jr., and a daughter, Mrs. Jack Bentzinger.

Reading Lag Linked to Crowded Classes and Teacher Shortage

A telebinocular machine used to test vision of school children in remedial reading clinics, being examined by DANIEL L. SCHLAFLY, Board of Education member. MISS ANNE PRICE, consultant at Banneker school clinic, operates device, one of several shown to board members in demonstration yesterday.

About 58 per cent of the 736 school children who were given a standard reading test, consisting of 10 questions. Only one correctly answered question indicated a fourth-grade reading level; a perfect score was rated at college junior level. Board members labored over the test, checked their own papers and were not asked to disclose their scores.

The board voted to authorize Building Commissioner V. Harry Rhodes to solicit bids for contracts totaling $352,580 for repair and improvement work during the 1956-57 fiscal year.

The board went in closed session to discuss a requested appropriation of $102,194 for most of the cost of converting Washington Technical High School into an elementary school. Later, James F. Morell, board president, said action on the request had been deferred.

818 Dinner Item Approved.

Contingent fund statements of executive officers of the board were approved, including an item of $188 for the board's private dinner held prior to the March 13 public meeting.

Mervyn E. Wiethepa, secretary-treasurer of the board, reported that state aid to the board under the present incomplete financing of the foundation program would be $928,431 less a year than under 100 per cent financing.

Supervisors at the city's five reading clinics found they could add one academic year on the average to a child's reading level in only 40 hours of special instruction. Kottmeyer told the board, which met as a committee of the whole.

He said other tests taken at the clinics showed that 11 per cent of the children had emotional problems which hampered their reading: 13 per cent had hearing trouble; 20 per cent had visual defects, and 36 per cent had physical difficulties of one kind or another.

Board members were shown special equipment used in the clinics to determine a child's reading problems and other devices used in the remedial work.

PRESIDENT BACK ON JOB '100 PCT.' ADAMS ASSERTS

The New York Herald Tribune-Post-Dispatch Special Dispatch.

WASHINGTON, April 4—Presidential Assistant Sherman Adams yesterday mocked at charges of a "part-time presidency" and said President Eisenhower is back on the job "100 per cent."

Speaking to the Advertising Council here, Adams reported that the President had been increasing his workload day by day and is now back to full schedule.

"It is a schedule," Adams added, "that would tax anybody."

As to charges that the President had delegated some of his constitutional duties, Adams, who has frequently been called the assistant president, said:

"I happen to know something about that. No constitutional duties have been delegated to me. And there has been no usurpation of power whatever by any insidious cabal in the White House."

Adams said that the President is determined to do what is required to keep in good health.

By the Associated Press.

The Advertising Council channels about $125,000,000 of free advertising annually into public service campaigns. It announced a drive for a 20 per cent increase in that volume.

A "register and vote" drive, aimed at a record turnout in November, is the biggest project, said board chairman Louis N. Brockway of New York.

PARIS, April 4 (AP)—Irwin Marks, American theatrical impresario, died in the American hospital Monday. He was 77 years old. Mr. Marks, who had lived in Paris for 35 years, had been at various times representative in Europe for Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer, Billy Rose, the Shuberts and John Ringling North.

It was explained that a regular exercise of exercises in warm-water pools may enable afflicted persons to keep up their muscle tone and learn simple movements, such as climbing steps, or walking with a cane.

Dr. Machek said physical therapy, properly combined with medical treatment, sometimes operated to "restore faith in the medical profession" in cases where doctors had given up patients. He said the work also served to keep patients out of the hands of quacks.

NAVY EXPECTS MUCH REDS PAY $4500, DATA IN ANTARCTIC REGAIN PROPERTY

Burke Pays Tribute to
Adm. Byrd, Deepfreeze
Leader.

The New York Times News Service.
(Copyright 1956 by The New York Times Co.)

NEW YORK, April 4—The United States Navy expects Operation Deepfreeze to produce scientific material of vast importance and to make it possible to explore the few unexplored areas of the Antarctic. Adm. Arleigh A. Burke, chief of naval operations, said here last night.

Operation Deepfreeze is a four-year project connected with the international geophysical year 1957-58 in which scientists from 45 nations will simultaneously observe terrestrial phenomena in all parts of the world.

Burke spoke at a dinner in honor of R. Adm. Richard E. Byrd, pioneer aviator and polar explorer, who is in command of naval forces for Operation Deepfreeze. Byrd returned to this country last month after leading his fifth expedition to the Antarctic.

Four hundred persons attended the dinner, paying $25 apiece for the benefit of the International Rescue Committee, of which Byrd is honorary chairman. The committee is a private organization that aids persons escaping from dictators.

Byrd paid tribute to Byrd as "the world's foremost living explorer" and as "one of the Navy's most famous flag officers."

Burke said he would not be surprised to see Byrd commanding the first naval expedition to the moon, and added: "If he does command the expedition, he will get there successfully, and accomplish what he sets out to do."

A telegram from President Eisenhower was read at the dinner, extending his "warm congratulations" to Byrd and paying tribute to his "magnificent accomplishments."

far as 20 miles inside the frontier.

"Breach of Security."

"This is a breach of our security that we don't like very much," he said. "But it is essential we shoot them down so they fall in our territory so we can prove to the United Nations they were flying inside the Jordan frontier. This is difficult on a 400-mile frontier. Even without crossing the line, a high flying plane can photograph well inside our territory."

He said he had information that Israel already had received 14 French Mistral four-jet fighters and that some of these already had been observed in the air. He explained the flights were seen "not by our forces but over Haifa," in Israeli territory.

Credit for the relatively quiet frontier between Israel and Jordan should go largely to the Arab Legion, he said, adding:

"We are overworking our patrols and observation posts not to give Israel any chance of provoking incidents. However, trouble sometimes starts when they undertake maneuvers with live ammunition right along the frontier. Also their positions sometimes open fire across the line just to show us they are there."

"Arabization Completed."

Col. Abu Nawar indicated that the so-called "Arabization" of the Legion is completed for the present. He said the number of British officers had been reduced from 65 to about 25. He added that he expected "not many more changes at the moment." Remaining British officers will be kept as an advisory and training mission, he said, mainly in technical fields including ordnance and engineering.

British 'Obligation.'

Asked about the future of the $24,500,000 annual British subsidy to support the Legion, Col. Abu Nawar described the payment as a British obligation with 12 years to run under a mutual military assistance treaty between the two countries. In return, Britain maintains Royal Air Force units at Amman and Mafraq in Jordan.

The colonel explained that Egypt, Syria and Saudi Arabia had offered to match this payment for 10 years but only if Jordan would give up the British grant. He said the Arab offer would not be accepted at that price but would be welcome as an addition to the present payment.

In addition to the Legion proper, the Legion commands the Jordanian national guard, which includes all men between the ages of 18 and 40. The colonel said numerical strength of both groups was a military secret. Unofficial sources estimate Legion strength at 20,000-25,000 and national guard strength at 30,000.

Concrete Cones.

Abu Nawar then was asked whether there was any secret about the rows of six-foot whitewashed concrete cones that follow gentle contours across the mountainous countryside. He was asked whether there was any truth to the report that they marked emergency tank routes.

Col. Abu Nawar laughed and said:

"I wondered about those things myself. I made inquiries and was told they were part of some sort of land survey. We would not be so foolish as to try to move tanks that way. The roads are much easier."

The premises of the Worker and of the party were seized by Moyse's agents last week on an income tax lien.

The agreement for return of the quarters was reached after a hearing before United States District Judge Edmund Palmieri on a petition by attorneys for the party and the newspaper for return of papers and documents seized in the raids.

Judge Palmieri told attorneys for the Worker and the party that they could resume argument tomorrow if they were not satisfied that all the seized papers had been returned.

The arrangement called for payment by the Daily Worker of $3000 for release of its property. The party agreed to pay $1500 for its seized assets.

The seizures were made on the Internal Revenue Service's contention that the Worker owned $46,049 in income taxes for 1951, 1952 and 1953 and that the party owed $389,265 for 1951. The payments for seized property will be applied against these tax claims.

The settlement provided for the sale of the Daily Worker assets to Max Gordon, city editor of the newspaper. Miss Grace Hutchins, a frequent provider of ball for Communist and left-wing defendants, became the nominal purchaser of the party assets.

FOUR YOUTHS PUSH GOAT INTO HOTEL LOBBY AND RUN

Four youths pushed a goat into the lobby of the Congress Hotel from the rear door shortly before midnight last night and ran. The clerk, John Hoffman, called police and the Humane Society and meanwhile the goat, after making a quiet and peaceful survey of its new surroundings, began licking at the carpet—possibly with a whale of a meal in mind.

The Humane Society took the animal to its shelter, at 1210 Macklind avenue, but it was not long before the police got word that somebody's goat was missing.

David Stifel, 6121 Lindell boulevard, said a padlock on the gate of his rear yard had been broken and the goat stolen. He identified the animal at the shelter, and got it back.

DALAI LAMA PLANS TAVERN OWNER'S APPEAL TO ATTEND BUDDHA MEETING IN NEPAL

KATMANDU, April 4 (UPI)—The dalai lama of Tibet has expressed desire to visit Katmandu, capital of Nepal, where he believes he worshipped Buddha at monastery in his first incarnation many hundreds of years ago, it was reported today.

Government sources said the young spiritual and administrative ruler of Tibet expressed a wish to attend the fourth world Buddhist conference which meets here in November.

The young Dalai Lama, believed by his followers to be in his fourteenth incarnation, was quoted as saying he worshipped in a valley some 12 miles from Katmandu in his first life on earth.

The monastery is still one of the greatest pilgrimages for Tibetan Buddhists in Nepal and the Dalai Lama recently sent some money to whitewash and repair it.

NEGRO LEADS FOR COUNCIL SEAT IN FLORIDA TOWN

RIVIERA BEACH, Fla., April 4 (UPI)—E. H. Cunningham, Negro attorney, led three white opponents in an election for city councilmen. Cunningham yesterday received 710 votes, 634 of which were cast by Negroes. He faces a run-off April 17 with Bruce Caddy. Caddy received 510. Incumbent Sam Odham ran third. In the town's one white precinct, Cunningham received 76 votes to 1076 for his three white opponents. Riviera Beach has a population of about 4000.

BRIDE CALMLY BEARS BEE STING AT HER WEDDING

ONDULE, England, April 4 (UPI)—Many brides are nervous. But not Margaret Collins.

She stood calmly throughout the ceremony yesterday as she married Patrick Cunningham. And all the time she could feel a bee crawling along beneath her bolero.

Near the end of the ceremony the bee stung her, but she endured the pain and carried on. The wedding over, she dashed from the church and to a drug store for treatment. Her husband ran after her.

E. ST. LOUIS POLICE ARREST ST. LOUIS MAN AND WOMAN

The crackdown on St. Louis area hoodlums and their associates by East St. Louis police continued early today with the arrest of a St. Louis man and a woman at a parking lot near Eads Bridge.

The man identified himself as Tony Ferrante, a barber, of the 3200 block of St. Louis avenue. He and the woman were in an automobile, the license of which had been reported to East St. Louis police by the St. Louis police hoodlum squad.

The license was issued to Joseph Licavoli, described as an associate of gangsters and hoodlums. Ferrante said he borrowed the machine from Licavoli. Individuals arrested in the roundup will be photographed and fingerprinted by East St. Louis police.

FRENCH PLEDGE RESTORATION OF NATO STRENGTH

CONFEREES SEEK TO FIX PROP RATE ON FEED GRAINS

Troops Sent to Africa to Be Replaced as Soon as Possible, Mollet Asserts.

PARIS, April 4 (UPI) — Premier Mollet promised today to restore France's full NATO strength, now depleted by massive troop withdrawals to fight the Algerian rebellion.

Mollet made the statement in a speech at ceremonies marking the seventh anniversary of the North Atlantic Treaty Organization and the fifth anniversary of NATO's military arm, Supreme Headquarters of the Allied Powers in Europe.

"I need not repeat to you that France will re-establish at the very earliest possible moment the full strength of her contribution to the common defense on continental soil," he said.

France has withdrawn seven divisions from NATO—two of them in recent weeks—to cope with the spreading North African rebellion. Men from the last contingent of 30,000 still were arriving in Algeria.

Progress Almost Fantastic. Mollet spoke after talks by NATO Secretary General Lord Ismay of Britain and SHAPE supreme commander, Gen. Alfred M. Gruenthal.

Gruenthal said NATO still was not strong enough to repel an all-out act of aggression but said "I think that the progress we have made already is almost fantastic, considering the difficulties we have had to overcome."

He said five years ago when Gen. Dwight D. Eisenhower took over SHAPE the organization was so weak it could deal only with military matters but "the time has now come when greater emphasis can also be placed upon these non-military activities."

Lord Ismay warned that only continued unity can save the West—"if we drift apart I can see little hope for any of us."

Troops representing the 15 member nations paraded just outside Paris. A fly-past scheduled for today was called off because of low-hanging clouds.

West Germany in Parade. Every member nation except Iceland sent troops to the celebration. Iceland has no armed forces and was represented by French soldiers.

Newly-sovereign West Germany, which joined the alliance last year, participated in the parade for the first time. It had four men of the German air force training company present.

Two other relatively new members, Greece and Turkey, marched in the show of Western unity against Communist aggression although they are at loggerheads in the eastern Mediterranean over the island of Cyprus.

NATO was established April 4, 1949, in Washington. SHAPE was born two years later on April 2, 1951, and assumed operational control of a 4000-mile defense line stretching from the Arctic sea to the Caucasus. Belgium, Canada, Denmark, France, Iceland, Italy, Luxembourg, The Netherlands, Norway, Portugal, the United Kingdom and the United States were the original members. Greece and Turkey joined in 1952 and West Germany in 1955.

STALIN DEMOTED
HEROES' GALLERY

The New York Herald Tribune-Post-Dispatch Special Dispatch

ROME, April 4—The Italian Communist party demoted Stalin to No. 6 position in its photographic gallery of heroes yesterday as it opened its first national convention since the start of the ideological campaign against the late Russian dictator.

The continued presence of Stalin in the photographic gallery, nonetheless, indicated his shock for Italy's Communists.

No living Russian leader was among those honored with photographs hung behind the convention dias. The picture of Palmiro Togliatti, who has been unchallenged dictator of Italian Communism for 12 years, was demoted to No. 2 position. The picture in first place was another Italian, but dead. He was Antonio Gramsci, founder of the Italian Communist party.

The others in the gallery were Engels, Lenin and Marx.

The listings were in accord with an interpretation of Stalin that Togliatti has given his followers: Stalin made errors, but he was the great man just the same and cannot be eliminated altogether.

AIR SERVICE TO MOSCOW

WASHINGTON, April 4 (AP)—Scandinavian Airlines System said yesterday it would start service to Moscow next month, the first western airline to do so. The line is operated by Sweden, Denmark and Norway.

Tentative plans are for SAS to operate three flights a week to Moscow from Stockholm, Copenhagen and Oslo.

HOMERULE PLANS WIN IN CLAYTON AND BERKELEY

Write - In Mayors for Creve Coeur and Rock Hill — Other Results in County.

Proposals to draft home-rule charters were approved by large majorities yesterday by voters in Clayton and Berkeley, who also chose 13 charter freeholders in each city.

In Rock Hill and Creve Coeur, write-in candidates were elected mayors.

Ferguson voters approved three bond issues totaling $376,000 but turned down five others totaling $464,000 for various improvements.

Elections were held in the county yesterday to choose 563 officials in 91 cities, towns and villages; 29 school districts, 10 sewer districts and three fire protection districts.

With only simple majorities needed for passage, the charter proposal was approved 1456 to 116 in Clayton and 1447 to 262 in Berkeley.

The freeholders elected yesterday will draft home-rule charters to be submitted next year to voters for acceptance or rejection.

Clayton Park Tax Wins.

Clayton voters authorized a 2½-cent increase in their park tax—from 7½ to 10 cents on each $100 assessed valuation.

James P. Wilson, a real estate dealer, received 559 write-in votes to defeat George E. Flehman in Creve Coeur's mayoralty election. Flehman, the only mayoralty candidate whose name was on the ballot, had 284 votes.

Wilson, who had sought unsuccessfully in a circuit court suit to have his name put on the ballot, ran on a platform opposing a pay boost voted recently by Creve Coeur aldermen for the city's elective officials, including Flehman.

Elmer Whitney, vice president of Construction Escrow Service Inc. was elected mayor of Rock Hill by getting 660 write-in votes to 576 received by Monte Montague, candidate whose name was on the ballot.

Ferguson Bond Issues.

Bond issue proposals approved in Ferguson were: $146,000 for improvements of major streets; $80,000 as the city's share for construction of a railroad underpass, and $150,000 for purchase of land for off-street parking facilities.

Proposals defeated were: $40,000 for automatic traffic signals; $225,000 for a revolving fund for street improvements; $45,000 for building a city garage; $42,000 for a library addition and $112,000 for acquiring new parks and improvements.

Ferguson voted to reduce its park tax to 14 from 20 cents on each $100 assessed valuation and to reduce its library tax to 7½ from 10 cents.

Voters in Jennings and Creve Coeur authorized an extension of their boundaries. In St. Ann, a proposal passed for installation of 274 additional street lights. Margona Village granted a 15-year franchise to Union Electric Co. and Pasadena Park residents approved a 20-year franchise to St. Louis County Water Co.

Town and Country Missing.

The Village of Town and Country was the only county municipality among those having elections yesterday which did not have returns available today. Officials said certified returns would not be made until Thursday because absentee ballots could not be counted until then.

Winners of contested city offices were:

Isn't that just like a man? You can be sure this spilled water won't get wiped up till morning. ♦ But take heart, ladies! With Stride—a magnificent new Johnson's Wax—on your floors, a damp cloth whiskes away spill spots, even if left for hours!

For the first time
PROTECTS LIKE PASTE WAX

SPILL ON IT, SPLASH ON IT, PUNISH IT - JUST AN EASY ONCE-OVER RESTORES THE LUSTER, WITHOUT RE-WAXING!

No wonder the swing is to Johnson's Stride! For in Stride women have found at last a self-polishing wax that actually protects like paste wax. You just spread Stride on—it dries to a rich wax luster. And from then on, spills wipe up without a trace, even after they've dried. A little buffing erases scuff marks. Your usual damp mopping actually brightens the luster. You can bring back Stride's beauty again and again, without re-waxing! So you wax about half as often. That means you eliminate half of those back-breaking scrub-ups before waxing, too. . . . that's what Stride can mean in your home! Why don't you join the swing to Johnson's Stride?

UNION ELECTRIC SHIFTS
SOME OF ITS OFFICES

Union Electric Co. has completed moving four departments and portions of two others from its headquarters at Twelfth boulevard and Locust street to the company's new service building at 721 South Eighteenth street, it was announced today.

The moving job, involving files, records and other equipment used by 350 employees, was performed on weekends and was completed last Saturday, company spokesman said. Purpose of the move was to relieve crowding in the 11-story Twelfth boulevard building.

Moved to the new four-story building on South Eighteenth street were the engineering and construction, supply service, steam heating and power production departments, and portions of the employee relations and cashiers and mailing divisions. There are now 1100 employees in the new building, as compared with 600 in the headquarters office on Twelfth boulevard.

Salk Opposes Third Polio Shot While Supply of Vaccine Is Short

Says That Until All Children Have Received Two Doses None Should Have More.

By MICHAEL J. O'NEILL
PITTSBURGH, April 4 (UPI)—Dr. Jonas E. Salk is against giving third polio shots to children this year while supplies are short.

He said two injections will protect most children during the coming polio season. Third shots should be delayed to make more vaccine available to children who need it most.

"No child should get a third dose until all children have had two shots," Salk said. "The third injections should be postponed until 1957."

Salk made it plain he decided to recommend postponement of the third shots this year only because there is now substantial evidence that two doses—to a certain extent even one—will give most children protection during the coming season.

"On the basis of our 1955 experience," he said, "two doses can be expected to have such a good effect that little risk is involved in delaying the third. The third injection can be regarded as the one which provides a relatively long effect. Since this is not our immediate concern in 1956, the third dose should be delayed while supplies are short."

Degree of Protection. Then what kind of protection can children expect this year if they have received only one or two shots? Salk provided this guide:

One shot—Between 60 and 100 per cent of the children who get one dose receive protection against paralytic polio. This dose sensitizes the body's defensive mechanism so that it reacts quickly and powerfully if polio virus threatens to invade the central nervous system. Since the first shot does not produce an immune response in all children, however, a second shot is recommended.

Two shots—Between 85 and 100 per cent of the children who receive two shots can expect protection. This is particularly true if the second shot is given at least two and a half months after the first.

Boom at Eli Lilly. Biggest reason for optimism is the booming production of the Eli Lilly Co. in Indianapolis. This firm has turned out nearly 70 per cent of all the vaccine produced so far—more than double the combined output of five other manufacturers. By June 30, Lilly said, its 1956 output will hit a record 60,000,000 shots—enough to give two doses to 30,000,000 children. In the last six months of the year, it plans to turn out another 40,000,000 shots.

There are 48,000,000 children under 15. O'Connor estimated that 10,000,000 in the 0-through 14-year-old group already have received two shots. He believes another 5,000,000 have received only one. That leaves roughly 35,000,000 children in the top priority ages who still need two shots and 5,000,000 who need only the second shot. A maximum of 71,000,000 shots.

However, experience has shown that about 25 per cent of the children eligible for shots fail to get them because of parental neglect, opposition to the vaccine or something else. Because of this, it presumably will take only 45,000,000 or 50,000,000 shots to wind up the 0-through-14 group. On the basis of the industry estimates, there should be enough vaccine this summer to do the job.

Vaccine has been released relatively slowly in the first three months this year. But a sharp swing is expected in the second quarter when Lilly expects tests on a huge backlog to be completed and Parke Davis' production should pick up.

In December, the Government reported 45 per cent of the vaccine was not being used as quickly as it was released. But demand is rising again now with approach of the polio season.

There are isolated complaints that vaccine appears to be available in some areas and not in others. The answer seems to be that each state—and often each community—is running its own distribution system in its own way.

Some states are buying up all the vaccine allocated to them and making it available free of charge. Some are letting most of their allotments go into regular commercial channels. All in all, about 60 per cent of all the vaccine is purchased by public funds and made available free.

WOMAN SETS FIRE IN WHITE HOUSE; DAMAGE SLIGHT

The New York Herald Tribune-Post-Dispatch
Special Dispatch

WASHINGTON, April 4—Five small fires were started with no appreciable damage yesterday in the White House and the adjoining executive office building by a woman, 53 years old, believed to be a mental case.

The woman, who said she was Mrs. Julia M. Chase, was taken by White House police to a hospital for observation. She was reported incoherent and unable to say where she came from or what her purpose was.

The only fire in the White House proper took place in the Red Room, on the south side of the main White House structure, at 10:30 a.m. At that time, President Eisenhower was in his office in the West Wing receiving Sir William Dixon, air chief marshal, of the Royal Air Force. The President's office is about 100 yards from the Red Room.

At 11:20 a.m. a burning matchbook was spotted in the Office of Defense Mobilization library on the fourth floor of the executive office building, which adjoins the White House West Wing.

Twenty minutes later, there was a third fire report from a women's rest room on the second floor of the office building. Office workers put it out. At noon, the fourth was found in a rest room on the ground floor.

Police and government building guards didn't find the cause of the fires until nearly 3 p.m., when the fifth fire was reported in another, second-floor rest room.

FLEES POLICE, WRECKS
AUTO, FACES 6 CHARGES

James Townsend of the 2100 block of Kansas Avenue, East St. Louis, was released on $2000 bond yesterday after he was charged with six traffic violations.

Townsend, a Negro, was arrested Monday after he attempted to elude two police officers who had ordered him to drive from Sixteenth street and Broadway, East St. Louis, to police headquarters to explain why he had no state license plates.

Police said Townsend drove his machine at speeds up to 70 miles an hour and at Tenth street lost control of the automobile, struck a light standard, turned over, damaged four automobiles and struck a fence. Townsend was charged with speeding, reckless driving, failure to possess a driver's license, no license plates or city sticker and destruction of property.

PLYMOUTH HOLDS U. S. SPEED AND ACCELERATION RECORDS!
When other cars talk about records, remember these cold facts:
Plymouth alone holds the official NASCAR Flying Mile speed record of 124 mph in its displacement class, and the official NASCAR acceleration record of 82.54 mph for ALL U. S. stock cars. These two records still stand unbroken. Plymouth—first in SPEED, PER-FORMANCE, SAFETY!

You'll own the only low-price car that's really new. Plymouth's Aerodynamic profile, as one glance tells, is all new—design of the future today. But the other two low-price cars? They're still about the same as last year and the year before!

You'll own the biggest car in Plymouth's field. You'd have to pay hundreds of dollars more to match Plymouth's generous trunk space, over-all length, and interior dimensions. (Plymouth is far bigger than other low-price cars, inside and outside.)

You'll own the only low-price car with

From the day you buy it...through all the years you own

HENNINGS CALLS FARMING NO. 1 PROBLEM IN U.S.

Senator, Filing for Second Term, Addresses Democrats in State Legislature.

By a Staff Correspondent of the Post-Dispatch.

JEFFERSON CITY, April 4.—The "deepening depression" in the farm economy is the nation's most serious domestic problem, United States Senator Thomas C. Hennings Jr. of St. Louis said today.

The senior Missouri Senator was here to file his formal declaration of candidacy for Democratic nomination for a second term in the Senate. He spoke at a breakfast given for Democratic members of the Legislature.

Outlining the major issues of the forthcoming national and state elections, Hennings declared:

"The rescue of our country's farming population from a deepening depression, and the re-establishment of a sound farm economy is the most important single issue confronting American government today in the field of domestic legislation and administration.

"The preservation of the family farm is of the highest importance to the social well-being of this country. There is no single complete answer to all our farm problems. We must keep trying to devise ways to restore to the farmer his fair share in the country's economy."

Hennings pointed out he has repeatedly denounced the "political manipulation" of the state's agricultural programs by the Eisenhower Administration, and has called on Secretary of

EISENHOWER ASKS C.A.B. TO HOLD UP AIRLINES ORDER

WASHINGTON, April 4 (AP)—President Eisenhower asked the Civil Aeronautics Board yesterday to withhold temporarily, for "foreign policy" reasons, its proposal to allow non-scheduled airlines operating overseas to provide "supplemental" scheduled service.

The President said he had no objection to the CAB making effective its decision insofar as domestic and territorial operations are concerned.

The CAB promptly issued an order in accordance with the request.

The CAB decided last Nov. 15, after a four-year investigation of about 50 non-scheduled lines, that it was time to strengthen them and foster their growth.

In a policy statement, CAB said the lines were to be designated as supplemental airlines no longer confined to irregular and infrequent flights.

It was proposed they could schedule up to 10 flights a month, in the same direction, between any two cities.

It also was proposed they be permitted unlimited charter operations on a plane load basis.

Unmistakable Odor.

TALLAHASSEE, Fla. (AP)—In a 6-1 decision, Florida's Supreme Court upheld an arrest by an officer who said he smelled fermenting mash. In the majority opinion, Justice B. K. Roberts wrote of the odor of mash: "here is nothing else in the world I ever encountered that smells like it."

Agriculture Benson to restore nonpartisanship in the election of committees to run the Agricultural Stabilization and Conservation Service.

He accused the Republican Administration of "consistent favoritism toward monopolistic business" and charged its foreign policy was "halting and unimaginative." He urged federal aid for the construction of highways and for school purposes.

2 SAY REDS SET UP PEACE GROUP UNITS

Testify They Were Behind Louisville, Pittsburgh Crusade Branches.

WASHINGTON, April 4 (AP)—The Subversive Activities Control Board was told yesterday that Communists set up branches of the American Peace Crusade in Louisville, Ky., and Pittsburgh, Pa.

Two former Communists for the FBI testified at a board hearing. The board has been asked by the Justice Department to declare the Crusade a Communist-front organization.

The witnesses were Mrs. Alberta Ahearn, Louisville widow and former professional dancer, and Isaac Alexander Wright, a Pittsburgh Negro.

He said he acted as "intermediary" between the Crusade's Pittsburgh committee and the Communist party.

He said the Rev. John Evans, a Unitarian minister and a non-Communist, was chairman of the committee. Wright said Communist leaders decided to back Evans at a private meeting.

They also planned to enlist other influential citizens outside the Communist party in the Crusade, Wright said.

Communists, he continued, were instructed to join the committee but to stay in the background and to approach Evans only through Wright. Mrs. Ahearn said she exposed

NEW YORK TO MIAMI FLIGHT HIKE URGED

CAB Examiner in Favor of Third Airline for Route.

WASHINGTON, April 4 — An examiner recommended yesterday that the Civil Aeronautics Board authorize a third carrier to fly the lush New York-Miami run. He favored Delta Air Lines, Inc., over seven other contenders.

The foremost air travel route in the country is now shared by Eastern Air Lines and National Airlines. Delta can fly a passenger between New York and Miami now only if he goes to Atlanta and changes planes.

The proposed Delta certificate would permit the line to serve many intermediate East Coast cities.

Examiner Thomas L. Wren recommended an extension of National's route to Boston so it could compete with Eastern for through service between that city and Miami. National's northern terminus is now New York.

He proposed the lifting of many other restrictions that would expand air service to East Coast cities.

The proceedings involved 21 applications for new routes or amendments of existing routes by 12 carriers.

Some of the more important changes proposed included:

1. United Air Lines would fly the New York-Washington run, making eight carriers on that route.

2. Between Boston and Washington there would be five carriers instead of two. The added starters would be National, Transworld Airlines and United.

3. Between Boston and New York there would be six instead of three carriers. The new ones would be National, T.W.A. and United.

JOHN ROOSEVELT SUPPORTS NIXON FOR RENOMINATION

POUGHKEEPSIE, N. Y., April 4 (AP)—John Roosevelt, the only Republican among the late President Franklin D. Roosevelt's children, has expressed support for renomination of Vice President Nixon. Roosevelt told the Dutchess County Republican Committee last night that President Eisenhower and Nixon are "the best possible team we can get in Washington."

"I have served with Dick Nixon on the Government contracts commission . . . and found him to be a man of great energy, ability and integrity," Roosevelt said. "He's done a great job as Vice President both at home and abroad."

Roosevelt, who lives at Hyde Park, N. Y., is a New York City advertising executive.

FIRE BURNS 3 SQUARE MILES OF WOODS ON EAST SIDE

Fire fanned by high winds yesterday burned through a three-square-mile area of woods and brush near Black Lanes and Caneo creek in Madison county, Ill.

Volunteer firemen from State Park Place and Cassville fought flames for more than eight hours. The blaze died out at 3 o'clock this morning. No substantial damage was reported.

CHINESE REDS ARE ACCUSED OF 19,300,000 KILLINGS

TAIPEI, Formosa, April 4 (AP)—The Chinese Nationalists charged today that the Chinese Reds have slaughtered 19,300,000 persons since they overran the mainland in 1949.

The Reds were also accused of having sent at least 2,000,000 slave laborers to Russia and to be using 23,000,000 more persons as slave labor on the China mainland.

The charges were made at a special exhibit of charts and pictures depicting alleged Communist brutalities. The charts showed 5,000,000 persons butchered by the Reds in the land reform program and 7,500,000 others executed as counter-revolutionaries.

BIRDS, INSECTS CHIEF CAUSES OF RADAR 'PHANTOMS'

NEW YORK, April 4 (UPI)—Two radar scientists have certified to the American Association for the Advancement of Science that birds and even insects can and do get themselves registered on radar screens.

Lewis L. Bonham and Lieutenant V. Blake said most if not all radar "phantoms" are caused by birds and insects. Blake is a radar consultant to the Naval Research Laboratory. Bonham served the laboratory for 11 years.

Citing their own experiences and those of others they said that it is "now becoming evident" that birds can "clutter up a radar screen." At very close range of a few hundred yards insects can do the same.

They said that as early as 1939 the Navy had a proved incident in which a bird was registered on the radar at a distance of 9000 yards.

As for insects, they cited an experience of their own in which insects got into the radar beam that was being directed outward from a cliff top. Since it was a summer day, the phenomenon was easily explained. "A good sized June bug or dragon fly would certainly be at least one half wave-length" and so there was echo, they said.

A similar verdict was returned in favor of Wilson-Keith a year ago, but Judge Hulen granted a new trial, after agreeing with attorneys for the insurance firms he had failed to properly instruct the jury. The court said today an order confirming the newest judgment would be issued.

AIRMAN HELD A LONG TIME PLEADS GUILTY OF ASSAULT

Eugene K. Kmetz, 17-year-old airman whose lengthy detention by Circuit Attorney Edward L. Dowd was criticized by some circuit judges and the Bar Association of St. Louis, pleaded guilty yesterday of common assault. The charge of first-degree robbery against him was reduced by the circuit attorney's office.

Assistant Circuit Attorney Henry J. Fredericks recommended a sentence of six months in City Workhouse. Circuit Judge Michael J. Scott deferred sentencing until next Tuesday. Kmetz had been under indictment for participating in a $10 holdup last July in which the victim was beaten.

Two other youths are serving terms in the state penitentiary for their part in the robbery and a third youth, Eugene E. Woodward, was sentenced to six months in the workhouse by a jury. Fredericks said Kmetz was allowed to plead guilty to the assault charge, a misdemeanor, because of the "relatively minor" part he played in the holdup and the fact that Woodward was sentenced to six months.

Police officers testified they arrested Everett March 21 at Easton and Marcus avenues after observing him driving unsteadily for several blocks. He became abusive while being booked, they said, and had to be subdued. Everett, a Negro, was identified as having "two or three beers" but denied being drunk.

MISSOURI SCHOOL AID PAYMENTS ARE SHORT

State Making Final Grants This Week Under New Law.

By the Jefferson City Correspondent of the Post-Dispatch.
JEFFERSON CITY, April 4—The third and final apportionment of state aid to Missouri public school districts for the current 1955-1956 fiscal year, to be completed this week, will make the total for the first year of the new aid law $54,614,962, State Education Commissioner Hubert Wheeler announced yesterday.

This total, Wheeler said, will fall $18,203,000 short of the $72,818,755 requested by the public school districts under the new "foundation program" law approved by Missouri voters in a referendum election last Oct. 4. The school fiscal year begins on July 1 and ends on June 30 of the following year.

More Liberal Aid.

That act, submitted to the voters by the 1955 Legislature after extended study by a special survey group, provides more liberal aid to public school districts which levy a local school tax of not less than $1 on the $100 valuation. It also provides additional payment to districts by the state as an incentive to employ well-qualified teachers.

The Post-Dispatch recently pointed out that state aid for the first school year would fall about $19,000,000 short of meeting the provisions of the act.

Legislators and educators had expected state payments for the first year to fall short of benefits estimated under the new law, because it was not effective for a full school year.

More Revenue Needed.

Backers of the program also have said the sources of revenue to finance the plan would have to be increased to make full payments of the authorized aids.

The program largely is financed through the state setting aside 3.75 per cent of all general revenue collections for the public schools, supplemented by a new state cigarette tax effective last Jan. 1, which is expected to produce about $9,000,000 a year.

Full financing of the program likely will be placed before the next regular session of the Legislature in 1955.

Flashes of Life

Minority Dissent.

WESTPORT, Mass. (AP)—Rene J. Ouellette claims he got little attention from a majority of the Westport town assessors on his application for abatement on his 1955 real estate taxes.

He appealed to the Bristol county commissioners after declaring: "I feel I have been slighted."

Two members of the town assessment board declined to comment. Ouellette is the third member of that board.

Rules Are Rules.

ROSELLE, N.J. (AP)—A clivie-minded pedestrian told police that a car was parked overtime at a meter near headquarters.

Patrolman William Brinkman was told to go outside and put a ticket on the vehicle. He did, but with some reluctance. It was his own car. He paid a fine later.

Selective.

DENVER (AP)—Police are searching for some peculiar thieves.

They made off with the two rear wheels from a parked car, but they left the spare wheel in the front seat and placed four hubcaps in a neat row on a nearby lawn.

Divorced Actor John Derek.

SAN FERNANDO, Calif., April 4 (AP)—Actor John Derek was divorced yesterday by former French Actress Pati Behrs.

The court awarded Mrs. Derek custody of the couple's two children, Russell, 5 years old, and Sean, 2.

AIR FORCE TO SET UP 7000 - DEGREE SOLAR FURNACE

WASHINGTON, April 4 (UP)—The Air Force said today it would build a large solar furnace capable of producing radiation temperatures of 7000 to 8000 degrees Fahrenheit.

A solar furnace is a system of mirrors capable of concentrating the sun's energy on a single spot. The Air Force will use the high temperatures for research, for testing the heat-withstanding capacities of materials and weapons components and for duplicating where possible the thermal effects of nuclear weapons on various materials.

The Air Force said the furnace would be set up at about 9000-foot level in the Sacramento mountains near Holloman Air Development Center, Alamogordo, N. M. That area is known for its clear air and abundant sunlight.

The projected solar heater, under ideal conditions, would be expected to attain radiation temperatures of 7000 to 8000 larger area than any other furnace known to exist.

OILS, RAILS STRONG LATE, LIFTING LIST

New Price Closings After Irregular Day — More Stocks Off Than Up.

NEW YORK, April 4 (AP)—A late burst of strength in the oils and firmness in railroads boosted the stock market higher today.

Also ahead were the aircrafts, building materials, chemicals, steel, utilities. Airlines and radio-television were lower, and many coppers were down.

Some price changes were extensive, but the range of change covered around 3 points either way.

The Associated Press average of 60 stocks was up 80 cents at $191.20, a new record high. The previous record was set Monday at $190.90.

Dow-Jones average of 30 industrial stocks rose 2.74 points to a new record high of 518.65. The 20 rails gained 23 of a point at 171.64, while the 15 utilities lost .03 at 67.14.

The industrial component of the average was up 1.40 at a new high of 274.30, rails were up 60 cents, and utilities gained 10 cents.

The late rise in prices wasn't strong enough nor broad enough to include a great number of stocks, and as a consequence there were a few more down than up—457 higher and 497 lower out of the 1,199 individual issues traded. There were 67 new highs and 52 new lows for the year touched.

Business came to 2,760,000 shares as compared with 2,720,000 shares traded yesterday. The market exhibited basic strength when volume dried up during declining phases and expanded as prices advanced.

Babcock & Wilcox was off sharply after the annual meeting was told that 1956 earnings probably would be under last year.

Pittsburgh Plate Glass, up 4% yesterday, lost between 3 and 4 points today as officials at the annual meeting put the soft pedal on talk of big gains in profits this year.

Consolidated Laundries fell back between 1 and 2 points as a 50 per cent stock dividend was declared in addition to the regular cash payment of 25 cents for the quarter.

Fruehauf Trailer added around 2 points as it was announced that it would continue to pay its quarterly stock dividend of 2 per cent.

General Foods was up between 1 and 2 points on a two-for-one split proposal and a higher dividend declaration.

Texas Gulf producing made strong gains in the oils, and also higher were Chrysler, Boeing, American Telephone, Ohio Matheson Chemical, Westinghouse Electric, Underwood, Nickel Plate Railroad, and Johns-Manville.

Lower were U.S. Steel, RCA, Zenith Radio, Kennecott Copper, Allied Chemical, International Paper, Southern Indiana, Standard Oil of Indiana, Pan American Airways, Eastern Air Lines, and Hiram Walker.

The Associated Press index of 35 wholesale commodities gained a full point Wednesday to reach a new 1956 high of 180.58.

New Faces to Show.

ONE of the advantages the Carling Open will have at Sunset when it seeks to become one of St. Louis's best-attended golf events is that there has been a lapse in major tournament shows here.

So this event (May 10-13), depending on which players actually enter the competition, is likely to present a number of rising stars who have not been seen here before. In themselves they should create a certain amount of interest.

Old Warson's Dutch Harrison, who played much of the winter tour before returning to his post here, was in a position to give an up-to-date rundown on the tour's newer faces.

Gene Littler, second leading money winner who won the National Amateur in 1953 and hasn't been seen in St. Louis as a professional player, doesn't seem quite as sharp on the tour as he did a year ago, Dutch said.

"He just doesn't look too good," said Harrison. "I think he has asthma or something that bothers him."

But there are other newcomers, some more recent than Littler, who have been making their way into good position in the money earnings list. One of the most improved, Dutch said, is the tremendously long hitter, George Bayer.

* * *

'Most Improved.'

"BAYER has shown the biggest improvement of anybody among the younger players," said Harrison.

"In a couple of years he should be right at the top. He drives so far he has nothing but short irons left. He is in only his second year on the tour, about 27 or 28 years old, and he has developed now so that he's a good putter and wonderful with the flip wedge shot. He also has an excellent temperament."

"He sure can hit that ball. I played with him in the Texas Open. The No. 10 hole there is about 420 yards long and he drove within 20 yards of the green. On the same hole I needed a drive and a full No. 7 iron."

Bayer, who once — in the 1955 Tucson Open — had a drive that was measured at 426 yards, may not be expected to hit 'em far all the time.

Dutch's wife related that Bayer will frequently turn to spectators now and explain that they shouldn't expect him to belt everything because he's playing for position. "I'm in this game to win, not to hit the ball a mile," Bayer would explain.

And judging by the improvement he's shown, winning is just what Bayer will do, Harrison believes.

A Likely Crop.

ON FAIRFIELD of Casey, Ill., Mike Fetchick, Lionel Hebert, Don January, Doug Higgins and Ernie Vossler are other promising newcomers to the tour.

Fairfield, Harrison reported, has a good all-round game, is good with short irons, and is by far the best putter. Hebert is a long hitter with an excellent short game. Fetchick is an especially long hitter.

"Those three should win their share of the money," said Dutch.

January, one of the North Texas State College boys a few years back, is an expert chipper and putter, but he has trouble with a hook. "If he can get that straightened out, he'll be all right," Harrison commented.

Another, who hasn't shown in St. Louis, is Mike Souchak, the 29-year-old one-time college football end who began reaching golf heights a year ago as fifth leading money winner. Souchak won four tournaments last year, got his first 1956 tour win the other day at Wilmington, N.C.

But none of these younger men, says Harrison, stands much chance this week at Augusta, Ga.

"The youngsters just don't have the experience," said Dutch. "The Masters winner always has to be Hogan, Snead or Middlecoff or of that type. That golf course has some of the greatest holes ever made and no scrambler can win. It's quite a change coming off the winter tour where a player frequently can be all over the golf course and still score."

Tee to Green.

OLD WARSON, sporting a large new practice-putting green next to the pro shop, will have a golf staff of seven this season. Additions include Harrison's new assistant, Johnny Myers, a young player from Baspert, La., and Bill Hamilton Jr., son of the pro. Young Hamilton will work in the shop. Harrison, Myers and Dutch's step-son, Ray Akana, will do the teaching.

A new arrival in Harrison family is their first grandson, who has been named Dutch Harrison Akana. Playing 10 tournaments on the winter tour, Dutch found he isn't quite the same durable Arkansas Traveler that he used to be and finished a trifling 10th. He once played in 44 tournaments a year.

He's the current Greenbrier (W. Va.) Invitational champion, but he doesn't intend to play there this year. "I can't get away from here," said Dutch, "but I'll be playing in the Carling tournament." The Carling and Greenbrier dates conflict, May 10-13.

CARDS HEAD NORTH WITH FIRST-DIVISION GLOW

HUTCHINSON BASES HOPES ON PITCHERS' SPRING SHOW

By Bob Broeg
Of the Post-Dispatch Staff.

ST. PETERSBURG, Fla., April 4—Fred Hutchinson today took out of Florida a Cardinal ball club he expects to finish in the first division this year. "If the pitching is as good as it looked in training."

Winding up a 53-day encampment in St. Petersburg, the Redbirds' new manager spoke with measured optimism qualified only by his observation that insufficient hurling alone could keep the Cardinals out of the money.

"If the pitching is as good as it looked in training, we'll make it (the first division)," said Hutchinson, who had been an intent—almost glowing—and cautiously silent observer through seven and one-half weeks of Florida preparation.

"The important 'if' is the pitching," he said. "Otherwise, I'd say definitely we've got an adequate ball club, meaning a fair offense and a fair defense."

Hutchinson explained that he could use a more enthusiastic descriptive adjective about either the offense or defense, depending on the personnel to be played, and repeated an earlier statement that he would withhold a decision on his first baseman, shortstop and left fielder.

"We've still got to strive to get in the lineup as much balance as possible between the attack and defense, knowing that we'll go eventually with the type of club we need the most," he said.

As a former pitcher, Hutchinson acknowledged in answer to a question that he had probably above-average respect for defense. In reply to another question he said he regarded the Cardinals' outfield as "the club's most over-rated department."

The manager avoided individual criticism, but to one who has followed the Redbirds even casually it would be apparent that Hutchinson referred to lack of either fly-chasing skill or throwing strength in all outfielders except Bill Virdon and Jackie Brandt, the kid who isn't even on the Redbirds roster.

Brands Traveling North.

As a result of an agreement reached in a final Florida powwow between General Manager Frank Lane, Hutchinson and organization aids, it was disclosed that Brands would travel north with the Cardinals. He won't have to show any more at bat than in camp—277 to win promotion to the Redbirds if only for the first 30 days of the season.

"That is," Lane explained, "we won't worry about wasting an option because, whether he makes it or not this time, Jackie isn't likely to need three years before he does stick. The only question by cutdown time is if we take that long, would be used enough or spend too much harmful time on the bench."

For an exactly opposite reason, Hank Sauer will be given a look in left field and an experiment with Don Blasingsame at shortstop will be continued for at least part of the 11-day tour homeward. Sauer still might swing a big enough bat to compensate for defensive deficiencies and Blasingsame is superior on offense to either Alex Grammas or Dick Schoen.

The kind of pitching we had in Florida would mean the first division."

Antonelli's Tire Co. Burglarized Again

ROCHESTER, N.Y., April 4 (AP)—The Johnny Antonelli Tire Co., Inc., owned by Johnny Antonelli, pitcher for the New York Giants, was burglarized this week for the second time since last summer.

Police said the thieves this week took $900 from an office safe. Intruders last September took about $600.

Plans for Manhattan Stadium To Rival Brooklyn's Revealed

NEW YORK, April 4 (AP)—The Borough of Manhattan, hoping to attract future Olympic games and other major sports events while retaining its National League baseball franchise, today unveiled plans for a triple-decked inclosed stadium with a seating capacity of 110,000.

In New York, lacks adequate parking space.

While the Giants' front office never has flatly said the team would leave New York, there was much ado about the Dodgers' new home and city officials began looking for a way to improve the Giants' facilities. The Giants' lease on the present Polo Grounds expires in 1962.

The proposed stadium would provide indoor parking facilities for 20,000 cars and would include escalators.

No End to It.

Jack said the project also might accommodate radio and television studios and that a helicopter port could be constructed at the site.

Jack announced that a 35 or 40-man committee, consisting of leaders in finance, sports, government and construction, would be formed to handle development of the plans.

At present, Philadelphia's Municipal Stadium, which is the scene of the Army-Navy games, is the country's largest with a capacity of 105,000. Next come the Los Angeles Coliseum (101,328) and the Rose Bowl at Pasadena, Calif. (100,188).

Chicago's Soldier Field can hold 110,445, but with the help of temporary seats. The huge closed horseshoe on the shores of Lake Michigan has permanent seats for only 84,677.

us to get our potential regulars and pitchers ready, too," Hutchinson said, adding:

"Of the things that impressed me, I'd have to say that winning so often was No. 1. Why?

A Great Habit.

"Because," the former fiery American League competitor said, "it's a great habit to get into—winning—and we won, I feel, without putting victory ahead of conditioning, observation or instruction. We didn't make many of the more obvious mid-season moves of common sense strategy, preferring to see players perform and pitchers pitch under various circumstances.

Lane, striving for cross-section opinion, conducted his own unique sampling in player-by-player evaluation at a dinner at which the general manager good-naturedly had Yatkevian, senior Redbird employee who joined the Cards more than 30 years ago as bat boy, occupy the seat of honor.

Redbirds-Under-Glass Is Dish As Lane Gives Dinner for 13

ST. PETERSBURG, Fla., April 4—General Manager Frank Lane today had determined what his staff—from Manager Fred Hutchinson through Equipment Manager Butch Yatkevian and didn't like about the Redbird playing personnel as the Florida phase of spring training ended.

Lane, striving for cross-section opinion, conducted his own unique sampling in player-by-player evaluation at a dinner at which the general manager good-naturedly had Yatkevian, senior Redbird employee who joined the Cards more than 30 years ago as bat boy, occupy the seat of honor.

Ozark Sportsman and Outdoors Writer.

The trout season in Arkansas opened April 1 and remains open until Nov. 30. In previous years the season had been from May 15 to Oct. 31. This year the size limit—10 inches—has been removed and all trout caught must be kept. The daily limit is six.

The Arkansas Game and Fish Commission said, "The trout season will open April 1 and remain open through Nov. 30. The waters of White river from Bull Shoals Dam to Calico Rock, and Norfork river from Norfork Dam to mouth of said river, have been heavily stocked with trout and should furnish excellent sport during the coming season."

The above waters have been designated as trout waters and artificial bait may be used there while fishing for trout only, from April 1 to May 15, inclusive. Of course, if a black bass should be taken during this period, it must be released immediately. Also for the period April 1 through May 15, a person cannot fish within 100 yards below a dam."

The new regulation makes available about 58 miles of trout water. The river mileage from Bull Shoals to Calico Rock, Ark., is 54 miles; added to that will be the four-mile stretch of the North Fork (Norfork) river from the dam to its confluence with the White river.

Rainbow Stock Increased.

These waters have been stocked with both rainbow and German brown trout. The Arkansas commission recently released 10,000 rainbow trout, increasing the number of trout stocked in the two cold water streams since the last fishing season to well over 100,000.

Work is expected to start on the new federal trout hatchery next month. In a recent announcement the Fish and Wildlife Service said: "The big construction job for the year is the trout hatchery at Norfork, Ark., which will cost $455,000. The money has been appropriated and construction will begin in about two months. The work should be finished by the end of 1957." Construction will be under the jurisdiction of the Federal Fish and Wildlife Service's Region 4 headquarters in Atlanta, Ga., and, when completed, it will be the largest Government trout hatchery in the Atlanta district. The new hatchery will be able to produce some two million four-inch trout each year.

The water below the dams at both Norfork and Bull Shoals is of such low temperature that it provides ideal trout habitat.

Dams, which were built for both flood control and electrical generation, are so constructed that only the lower strata of water of the impoundment is released.

Table Rock Dam will be considered along the same plan and there is a possibility that Lake Taneycomo will be too cold to support warm water fish in any numbers after the completion of Table Rock.

Many fishery experts are of the opinion that this Missouri man-made lake will be cold enough for trout and it is possible that the new trout hatchery at Norfork also will supply it when both are activated.

Canadian's Hybrid Trout.

A hybrid trout has been developed by James E. Stenton, a Canadian game warden. It is called the spalke. The name comes from speckled (brook) trout and lake trout, because lake trout eggs fertilized with brook trout milt produce the spalke. New Hampshire, New York and the Canadian province of Alberta had open season last year on spalke. It has been stocked experimentally in Manitoba, Ontario, Quebec and California. It is said to grow larger and faster than many other species and readily takes artificial lures and flies. It also is recommended as a fish of excellent table qualities. This hybrid may be introduced to Missouri and Arkansas waters in the future. If the experiments in the other states prove successful.

Both brown and rainbow have thrived in the White river below Bull Shoals Dam. Last year excellent catches were reported. Minnows, crawfish and worms possibly took the lion's share of these fishes but dry flies, woolly worms, streamer flies and small spinning lures also proved successful. The 54-mile stretch of trout water on the White is one of the longest in the entire Midwest.

This year the trout anglers should be rewarded by some trophy, "pick-up" flies in the past.

From Bull Shoals to Calico Rock the angler will view a panorama of beautiful and inspiring scenery. The Arkansas Ozarks are rugged and picturesque. And the "rainbows" are to be found around every bend, even on cloudless days. Some fishermen declare it is even better than finding the proverbial pot of gold.

Volleyball Tournament.

The Salvation Army will hold its annual spring volleyball tournament for girls beginning April 25 and running through April 28. Team managers desiring to enter should contact Howard (Judge) Lewis at the Salvation Army gymnasium, 2200 South Seventh street, or call Prospect 1-3460 between 7 and 9 p.m. Only the first eight teams applying will be accepted.

The Horans scored a 2-1 victory over the Pinters to win the Elks' Bowling League championship last night at Palace Bowl. Ed Spitzfaden had a 649 total to pace the winners.

Collegians Could Sweep Olympic Trials With Win Tonight

Service Team Is Passed in Second Half

KANSAS CITY, Mo., April 4 (UPI)—The College All-Stars, only undefeated team in the American Olympic basketball trials, could win a clear-cut championship tonight in a game with the Phillips Oilers.

A loss by the Collegians could throw the four-team field into a two-way or three-way tie, depending on what happens in the final game, the Armed Forces vs. the Seattle Buchans.

In the event of a tie, the championship would be picked on a "point spread" basis, that is, the team with the biggest margin of points over its rivals. There, too, the Collegians have an edge for they are now 15 points ahead of their rivals, Phillips plus seven, and the Armed Forces minus seven.

Big Bill Russell and K. C. Jones of San Francisco sparked the Collegians to their second straight win, 82-74, over the Armed Forces (1-1) last night, while Phillips (1-1) came back to eliminate Seattle (0-2) from the running, 72-64.

12 for Olympic Squad.

The important thing to be decided tonight, however, is the 12-man squad to represent the United States in the Olympics at Melbourne, Australia, in November.

From five to seven players will come from the champion ship team. The others will be selected by the winning coach and the Olympics committee from the rosters of the three other teams. Also to be selected are six alternates, in case some of the 12 will not be eligible and available this fall.

Bucky O'Connor of Iowa, the N.C.A.A. runner-up team, is coaching the college players. He has indicated he would guide the team in Melbourne if selected.

Besides the win last night, his team beat Seattle, 86-79, Monday. The Armed Forces won its Monday night game, 77-77, over Phillips in overtime.

The Armed Forces threw a fast break at the Collegians in the first half and gave it a 42-37 half-time lead. Ron Tomise of Stanford made 15 points in the first half and teamed at guard with Billy Evans, formerly of Kentucky, to run the fast break. Tomise got only two points in the final half.

15 Quick Points.

Russell and Jones got 15 quick points between them early in the second half and the Collegians took over to stay at 48-47.

Russell had 29 points and 21 rebounds. Jones had 13 points, Willie Naulls of U.C.L.A. got 12 and Carl Cain of Iowa 11.

Evans and Larry Dugan, 6-8 center from Pepperdine, added 11 points each for the Armed Forces. Gib Ford, Texas, had 10.

Dick Bouska and Ray Steiner, former St. Louis U. stars, were opponents last night. Bouska scored 10 points for Seattle and little Steiner tallied four for Phillips.

Another Spring, Another Hurdle

SNAVELY (left) has among his tasks the development of a corps of blocking backs. Posed among the track team's equipment before facing hurdles of their own are, from the left, players MIKE SEIGEL, who lettered at blocking back last year, and JOE MACH and GARY GROH. Mach and Groh lettered at guard last year, and are to work out at blocking back this spring.

Snavely Says Bears' Spring Work Will Be on Football ABCs

By Jack Rice

Carl Snavely looked down the long walk from the arched and ancient doorway at Francis Gym and ignored the roar of bursting buds and birds in favor of more personal spring songs. "Here comes my tailback," said the Washington University football coach, over his shoulder.

The Bears' spring work will be on the football field, and the first break at the Collegians in the first half will have to wait off in a 42-37 half-time lead. Ron Tomise of Stanford made 15 points in the first half and teamed at guard with Billy Evans, formerly of Kentucky, to run the fast break. Tomise got only two points in the final half.

United States Team Loses in Table Tennis

TOKYO, April 4 (AP)—The United States men's team suffered its second defeat in four matches in the world table tennis championships today while the American women, after losing their first three matches, collected their second triumph.

Neither the United States entry holds much chance of a team title. Defending champion Japan, England, Romania and Czechoslovakia are jammed atop the men's division with 5-0 records. And Romania, also a defending champ, has a perfect mark for five matches in the women's competition.

England gained a share of the lead by beating the United States men 5-1. The lone United States winner was 17-year-old Erwin Klein of Los Angeles, who defeated Johnny Leach 21-19, 10-21, 21-16. It was Klein who won two matches as the United States defeated South Korea 5-1 for its second Tuesday night.

The American women, who lost to Japan, England and Romania, defeated winless India 3-2, rallying behind Lorn Flanigan and Lulu Leibiger, a pair of New Yorkers. India won the doubles and then carrying the surge through the final singles. Miss Flanigan clinched the 3 set, 10 minute, match-longest far in the women's play—with a 782 total. Don Carter had 749, Pat Patterson 716, Dick Weber 670 and Billi Weil 597.

In the Classic League on the Floriss Lanes, the Ace team set a new league record for one game with 1226. The five finished with 3340. In the big game, Flanigan had 243, Purkey 245, Costello 235, Bloess 258 and Remke 246.

Harrison to Vancouver.

BALTIMORE, Md., April 4 (UPI)—The Baltimore Orioles today optioned Right-Hander Bob Harrison to their Vancouver (B.C.) farm club of the Pacific Coast League. Harrison had a 14-12 record with Wichita, Kan., of the Western League last year.

College Stars Beat Trotters

SYRACUSE, N.Y., April 4 (UPI)—The College All-Stars led all the way last night to score their first victory in the tour against the Harlem Globetrotters, 87-76, before a capacity crowd of 7800 at War Memorial Auditorium.

The All-Stars scored the first basket of the game and never gave the Trotters a chance to do much of their famed clowning, thereby disappointing the large turnout.

Joe Holup of George Washington led the All-Stars in scoring.

PREP PARADE

Gunter of Mercy Fans 13, Werley of St. L. U. High 12; Central Shuts Out Laboure

By Harold Tuthill

Mercy High, Catholic Athletic Conference basketball champion, may be a definite threat in the league's baseball race if you can judge by its opening game yesterday.

The Bulldogs of Bill Houston nipped Wellston, 4-3, at Heman Park in a snappy performance which belied the early date on the calendar. Mercy had to come from behind to win for its southpaw, Dick Gunter, who struck out 13 and walked four in his '56 bow. He is expected to be the bread and butter pitcher for Houston's athletes.

Houston is a graduate of Wellston and so is Charles Oelerman, who returned to his alma mater to take over the Trojan baseball job.

Wellston, figured to give the other 11 schools in the Suburban group a battle for first place when their league season begins next Tuesday, now has a 1-1 record after beating Riverview Gardens, 3-0, in its first contest.

Wellston Loses 3-1 Lead. Against Mercy, the Trojans pushed over two runs in the third inning, the first coming after Johnny Jones slapped out his second of three straight singles. Jones, considered the No. 1 thrower for Wellston, played first base with Ron Angelo on the mound.

Wellston's second tally of the inning came as Hap Sheppard coaxed a walk with the bases loaded, forcing in Dave Lee...

After Mercy picked up a run in its half of the third, starting with a walk by Jim Nolan, who finally reached home on an infield out, Wellston made it 3-1 with another Jones-sponsored run in the fifth. He made second on an infield out, stole third and continued home on an error.

Mercy tied the score at 3-3 with a pair of tallies in the home half of the fifth. Nolan drew his second walk to start the rally and Bill O'Brien, also of basketball fame—he was all-distinct—slapped out his second straight single, which was kicked around in the outfield, Nolan reaching third. For the second time, O'Brien stole second.

Angelo retired Jim Beckmann on strikes and Bill Nordmann on a tap to the mound, but Mike Riechert poked a single through short and Nolan and O'Brien counted. Mercy then got the deciding run in the sixth after a walk to Bill Zurwiler paved the way for the tally. Nolan getting credit for the RBI on a well-executed sacrifice bunt along the first base line.

Other C.A.C. Victories. It was a pretty successful day generally for C.A.C. teams. McBride thumped Hadley, 10-2, aided by Brusca's two home runs and De Andreis nosed out Assumption, 8 to 7, with four runs in the seventh. Assumption loaded the bases with three walks in the last of the seventh but a Bob Zurzuhel, D-A pitcher, managed to retire the side without being charged on.

Laboure, another Catholic Athletic Conference team, was pounded by Central, 15 to 0, as Rich Bushart and Don Juengst collaborated on a one-hit effort.

Although Marlin, 13-1, and St. Louis Catholic, 12-1, were the only other Catholic teams to play, they were not mentioned.

DESTRUCTION ON THE MOVE IN MICHIGAN

Death and destruction are only moments away as tornado funnel blasts through outlying section at Grand Rapids, Mich., yesterday. Tornado was one of about a dozen which hammered communities in the area, leaving 2000 homeless and at least 18 dead. The blasted section in western Michigan was hit hardest but major damage was recorded in nine other states as violent windstorms raked the Midwest from Wisconsin south as far as Mississippi.

SIGHTSEERS SAVED

Coast Guardsmen helping tourists from Coast Guard rescue craft in Miami, Fla., after bringing them ashore from spot where their 65-foot sightseeing boat heeled over on pleasure trip in Biscayne Bay yesterday. Nine of the 56 passengers were thrown into the bay as the craft almost capsized, but all were saved.

SUSPENSION IN SPACE

Steeplejack-electricians, suspended on short ladder high above the Pennsylvania Railroad's freight highline in Philadelphia yesterday, presented puzzling picture to observers in the vicinity. Engaged in repair work near the scene of last week's grain elevator explosion, the men climbed tower at left, then lowered the ladder to reach their job. Work in restoring communications and clearing the area, badly damaged in fire which followed explosion, is still in progress.

SERIOUS STEVENSONS

Democratic presidential aspirant Adlai Stevenson and his son, John Fell Stevenson, in thoughtful moment as they listen to question posed by reporter whose hand and note pad appear at left. The Stevensons were passing through Atlanta yesterday en route to a south Georgia vacation retreat. Later this week Stevenson will campaign in Florida, where he faces major contest with Senator Kefauver for delegates to the Democratic national convention in Chicago next August.

FIREBEE AFLOAT

The Navy's KDA-1 Firebee, a jet-powered drone which provides realistic target for anti-aircraft gunners, floats on the water in tests at Point Mugu, Calif. More than 17 feet long, it can fly at 500 miles an hour at altitudes up to 30,000 feet. When fuel runs out, a parachute is triggered and the drone settles to earth. Special flotation features have been incorporated to insure recovery at sea.

The Most Complex Show in TV History

BY John Crosby

NEW YORK, April 4.

THE greatest single thing about Kraft's marvelous production of "A Night to Remember," the tale of the sinking of the Titanic, by Walter Lord, was simply that it was done at all in live television.

A few years ago it would not have been possible, at least not possible with this marvelous attention to detail and flawless technical direction.

This was far and away the most complex production in television history. The show was done from the world's largest TV studio, the NBC studio in Brooklyn. There were 31 sets and 107 actors with a total of 72 speaking roles. Seven sets were constructed in duplicate to be shown, at first dry, later with rising water. Sets included a portion of the hull and absolutely authentic reproductions of the interior, including the bridge, radio room, cafe, crew's nest, captain's quarters, grand staircase, lifeboats. Every detail of the sets was exact. A marine engineer and draftsmen were employed to translate the original blueprints of the Titanic into the real thing.

I BRING UP all this technical detail because it contributed enormously to the show's impact. Suddenly we were all transferred backward in time to April 14, 1912, before either World War had accustomed us to disaster. For the Titanic was a disaster in its day almost unimaginable in ours. Yet Walter Lord, who spent 28 years in research on his book, has recorded that moment in history with such painstaking fidelity as we suddenly are back in 1912.

Lord's respect for fact was faithfully adhered to by the director, George Roy Hill, who did a miraculously job of cutting back and forth from bridge to engine room to steerage to cabins. From his unwieldy cast, Hill got splendid co-operation. Actors cut in and out with marvelous precision, some of the scenes being only a few lines long.

IN FACT, it was this that kept us rooted to our chairs. The Titanic was an immense craft and the great drama of the occasion—as Lord makes full use of in his book—is that a fact that meant one thing in one part of the ship meant something quite different somewhere else. This, incidentally, is something characteristic of all disasters as anyone who has ever covered one can tell you.

Five minutes after, say, an explosion you will get 25 different stories from 25 different witnesses; the character of the witness enters deeply into what he saw, or believed he saw. As the stark truth came home to the many passengers on the Titanic, they each reacted with gaiety or gallantry or cowardice in their special predestined way and this is what gave the play an awe-inspiring dramatic punch.

THERE WERE MANY high moments but my own favorite was when the ship designer Andrews explained with simple mathematics that the great ship is doomed. The line, "The ship must go down," had the simple lucidity of a pistol shot.

The end—with Andrews going down with his unsinkable ship, the great chandelier crashing all over him—was so sudden I couldn't quite believe it. (With 3000 gallons of water to play with out in Brooklyn, I don't know how they got through it without drowning at least one actor.)

THE CLOSING WORDS bear repetition: "Had any of these 'ifs' turned out right, every life might have been saved. But they all went against her. And never again has man been so confident. An age had come to an end."

So enthusiastic was the response to this show that Kraft is contemplating showing the kinescope over again to provide certain union problems are ironed out. Commercial Charter Bahn in Film Division of the television shows of the entertainment caliber of "A Night to Remember" presented on the Kraft Television Theater constitute a far greater threat to the motion picture theater box office than either old features now on the video market or shortly to be on it or toll television."

Behavior Patterns

By Dr. Paul Popencoe

It has often been said that we could love people if we understand them better. Sometimes it's equally necessary to understand ourselves as well. But many of us misjudge our associates because we don't know what is back of their behavior. That seems to be Beverly's difficulty!

"I just can't figure out what's the matter with most of the girls with whom I work," she complains. "They're too bossy or gossipy. They're spell sports or show-offs. I didn't suppose there were such people in the world."

There are all kinds of people in the world, Beverly, and you'll have lots of trouble if you don't make allowances for them. Let's consider some of the ways in which men and women behave that merely reflect their own struggles to preserve their guard of dignity and self-esteem, but certainly could be improved.

★ ★ ★

THE AFFECTED PERSON OR SHOW-OFF. Why does she try so hard to impress others? Apparently, she can't feel satisfied with her own self but must continually try to be like someone else. You can help her by ignoring the posing and giving attention to some of the more desirable things she does. Praise her for her natural characteristics.

★ ★ ★

THE GOSSIP. By making others appear worse off than they really are, she tries to make herself feel relatively better. Again she needs respect and recognition for her good traits so she won't have to use unpleasant methods for building up her own self-esteem.

★ ★ ★

THE APPLE POLISHER. Probably she has not had enough affection and approval in her previous life. She craves those things now. Include her in your activities and help her to find a place for herself.

★ ★ ★

THE SNOB. Instead of feeling superior to you, as you suppose, she may actually be afraid of you. She may be merely shy. On the other hand, she may have been brought up in a home where she was always assured that "we are better than anybody else." Underneath her supercilious air she may feel lonely, unhappy, insecure and eager to do anything to have a few good friends and be included in group activities. Give her a chance patiently and forebearingly.

Contract Bridge

This is one of the columns prepared by Josephine Culbertson before her death.

In view of North's original pass in the following deal, South had to be extremely optimistic to hope for a slam, but, as it happened, North supplied exactly the right material, and so the highly speculative contract should have been made.

One of the overly optimistic features of South's bidding was that even when he learned that North had two aces, there was certainly no assurance that one of them was in clubs, as it had to be if the opponents were not to win the first two tricks. And aside from that, the missing card had to lie in an extremely favorable way for South to have any chance for the slam.

Obviously, a club lead would have written finis to South's hopes, but West had a more natural spade lead, and opened his top card of that suit. South won and led a heart. East took the trick and had no problem—all he had to do was exit in spades or diamonds and then sit back and wait for the setting trick in clubs.

South should have seen that the one hope for the contract was to avoid a club loser. He should have cleared the spades and diamonds from his own hand and dummy before leading a trump. With 10 trumps in the combined hands there was a distinct chance that the ace of trumps was blank. If the defender with the trump ace also held the club-king he would have to lead from that card to the combined tenace in the North-South hands.

That, of course, is what should have happened. Dummy would discard one club on the third diamond, and a heart play then would force East on lead. If he returned a club, declarer could win with the queen; if East returned a spade or a diamond, declarer could ruff, while discarding dummy's last club loser.

One woman played her 200-franc chips like mad, dropping a few here and there before the wheel began to spin, then reaching out over the table and dropping more of them all over the place just before the ball came to rest.

But mostly it was all very calm and quiet. I played straight numbers, and my few chips were gone in minutes.

After watching first one table, then the other, and seeing no sign of things livening, I walked the hymn and very soon found myself at the casino.

It seems that one Sunday morning—and to the casino, Sunday is like any other day of the week—a certain English gentleman of the Anglican church.

At one point a hymn was announced—number 32 in the regular hymnal. And while it was being sung by the congregation, I had left the church.

He had no strong desire at the moment to be sermons.

He walked idly along, whistling the hymn and very soon found himself at the casino.

There were not 50 persons playing and there was no big play. Sometimes the green-covered table would be covered with chips, but I noticed that they were nearly all of only 200-franc or about 60-cent minimum, the minimum play permitted.

Tables in the room beyond, where I understand there is a higher minimum, the croupiers were just sitting around waiting—perhaps for a later-hour crowd.

It was a little early for the big shots, I suppose. Many of them probably were at the ballet.

It's a very nice-looking church with a yellow stucco exterior, and an interior done simply in pale blue and white—very simple, yet pleasing.

But I must confess that my chief interest in it lay in the fact that it was doubtless the very church about which one of the amusing gambling stories of some 50 years ago was told.

Miss Jane Maury Hill, J.T. Clarkson Jr. Married

By Karin Hayward

MISS JANE MAURY HILL, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Maury Hill, was married last evening to John Turner Clarkson Jr., at St. Peter's Episcopal Church. Easter lilies provided decoration for the wedding, one of the first of the early spring season. Arranged in four altar vases, the flowers contrasted with a background of woodwardia fern. Lighted tapers shielded by hurricane globes were attached to the pews along the center aisle and entwined with greenery and white satin ribbon.

A large wedding party was in attendance. Maid of honor for the bride was Miss Patricia Phillip, Milwaukee, and flower girls were her two nieces, Lela Shepley and Becky Burgwin. Serving as bridesmaids were the former Miss Hill's sister, Mrs. George C. Burgwin III (Lela Hill), Pittsburgh, Pa.; the bridegroom's two sisters, Mrs. Paul Dorman Rogers (Frances Clarkson) and Miss Caroline Clarkson; Miss Hadley Lammert, and Miss Jean Russell, Chicago.

Mr. Clarkson, son of Mr. and Mrs. John Turner Clarkson, was attended by John S. Childress as best man. His ushers were Maury Hill Jr., C. Terrence Maguire, James Lee Johnson Jr., Arthur Scott Pollock, Thomas W. Petrus Jr., John Lipscomb, Daniel Lane, Richman Bry, George Stewart, Pittsburgh, and Bruce K. Baker, New York.

The bride wore a filmy white gown of chantilly lace and chiffon. The gown was designed with a fitted, short-sleeved bodice of the chiffon, trimmed around the deeply cut neckline with shirring, and a full gathered skirt fashioned of alternating bands of lace and chiffon extending into a short train. A cap of lace and chiffon secured the fingertip veil which cascaded to her fingertip. She carried a bouquet of lilies of the valley, stephanotis and orchids.

The Bride's Attendants Wear Yellow.

WALTZ-LENGTH gowns of soft yellow chiffon were worn by the bride's adult attendants. The dresses, molded tightly through the bodices which featured scoop necklines and short sleeves, flared widely over crinoline to form full skirts. Completing their costume were green slippers, bands of green leaves in their hair and crescent bouquets of magnolia leaves and yellow carnations. Miss Phillip's bouquet was distinguished by sprays of lilies of the valley. The flower girls were in white French organdy trimmed with valenciennes lace and touched with yellow at the waistlines and sleeves. Wreaths of green leaves encircled their hair and they carried baskets of yellow rose petals to sprinkle before the bride.

Mrs. Hill chose for her daughter's wedding a powder blue lace sheath with which she wore a tiny cap, trimmed with veiling, and a cluster of white orchids. The bridegroom's mother wore royal blue chiffon, a yellow flowered hat and a yellow orchid corsage.

St. Louis Country Club was the scene of the reception. Guests were received in the East room before a background of woodwardia fern, white larkspur, snapdragon and stock. Centering the buffet table was an epigene, overflowing with white flowers, flanked with silver candelabra. Smaller tables were adorned with hurricane lamps surrounded with yellow daisies.

Mr. Clarkson will take his bride south on their wedding trip. They will live here in their house on Laclede Station road.

The bride-elect is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Marcus Daly of Brookdale Farm, Lincroft, N.J. The bridegroom's parents, Mr. and Mrs. William A. Baker, former St. Louisans, now live in Fort Smith, Ark.

Attending the wedding from St. Louis will be Mr. Baker's grandmother, Mrs. Allen Baker; his uncle and aunts, Mrs. Wilson A. Benoit and Mr. and Mrs. George L. Hell Jr., and their daughter, Mrs. John Switzer.

Martha Carr's OPINION

Dear Martha:
I HAVE a problem which is bothering me very much. I am 19 and engaged to a very sweet girl who is also 19. My problem is that I have asked her to destroy her pictures of her ex-boy friends and she said no. Did I do wrong in asking her? Have I the right to do this? TROUBLED.

I don't blame you for wanting her to get rid of them, but I don't know that it's worth making an issue over. Every woman loves to recall all the men in her life, whether she really cared for them or not. The fact that she chose you is the important thing. One of these days she'll probably realize it's silly to keep souvenirs of old romances around and get rid of them but don't stir up a quarrel over it.

Dear Martha:
LIKE YOUR READER who signed her letter, "Help!" and who wanted to go downtown alone despite her husband's objections, I, too, am married to a selfish man. We both work. He begins his day by picking up his riders, two women and one man. They have coffee before work, gang up together for lunch and ride home together. He has his union meetings, lodge meetings, tavern when he wants a beer, goes hunting, fishing or just tinkers with the car on his day off. I prepare our meals, clean house, do our laundry and work in the yard after working all day. I go to church on Sunday. My most enjoyable recreation is going shopping alone on my day off, having dinner and seeing a show. I do not want my husband or a girl friend along. Sometimes I manage to go to the beauty shop. My husband thinks it's wrong because on that one day he has to eat out or prepare his own meal. But he doesn't think it's wrong to haul these women in the car I helped pay for. I agree with your reader 100 per cent. She needs this day alone.

Dear Martha:
I AGREE WITH "HELP" that her trip downtown doesn't sound very exciting and enjoyable but believe me, just any kind of trip for some of us women would be enjoyable. My husband comes and goes as he wishes and on rare occasions when we go together he chooses the place. Just let me make a suggestion and he blows his top. Should I attempt to make any kind of trip, especially in the evening, he would think I had gone off my rocker. Our children are grown and gone but still I am supposed to sit back and do just as he says. I guess I started wrong but I did everything in my power to give the children a good home life. I am not so old but what I am planning on leaving him and being on my own and it will be because he is too selfish and cross for me to have peace of mind.

A READER.

Everyone needs a change of pace, a change of scenery, and some privacy as well as an occasional hour to relax, to sit and think or read or walk in order to get out of the tense pattern of everyday living and the natural frictions that arise in any human situation. In fact, periods of solitude and peace will do much to help a person withstand those frictions. But it doesn't speak well for a marriage when a husband and wife want desperately to get away from each other and consider it a blessed relief when the other is absent. That's why a good marriage must be created of something infinitely stronger than a mutual infatuation. That soon fades and unless there is a substitute in the form of mutually-enjoyed hobbies, friends in common, mutual goals and aspirations plus common courtesy and thoughtfulness, a marriage cannot last. It may be too late for you to start building those common interests, but it is never too late to be affectionate and kind. Try it before you destroy your home.

Housework Boredom

By Ruth Millett

MAYBE you don't hate housework, after all. Maybe it is just the monotony of the same old routine which you hate. At least, hear what one reader of this column has to say on the subject:

"I have found that most of the women I know who 'hate housework' are what I call 'routinists.' You know, wash on Monday, iron on Tuesday, make the beds before doing the breakfast dishes, scrub the floor immediately afterward... day in and day out. This deadly routine is what kills their interest in housework. They wake up each morning thinking, 'Today I have to' instead of, 'What would I like to?'

"I am constantly told, 'But it's inefficient not to have schedules and routines.' Poppycock! Efficiency is for the business world and they can have it. I worked for five years before settling down to housekeeping in a highly paid career job and I'll take housework (my way) any day.

"People also told me, 'That's all very well, but when you have children you'll see that you've got to have more system.' To be sure, babies do have to be fed on schedule, and, according to pediatricians, they like to have baths and play periods on schedule, too.

"But, in my opinion, children should learn as soon as possible that the world doesn't run like clockwork and that there's often more to be had out of a spontaneous game or outing than out of planned entertainment. Mine thrive on the unexpected and are never put out when plans have to be changed at the last minute."

Well, that's how one wife has kept the job of homemaking interesting and enjoyable instead of letting it become a monotonous routine.

If you hate housework you might try her approach and see if it works for you.

Social Problems

By Emily Post

A READER asks: "Will you please tell me what I can do about a neighbor of ours who, every time she has a party (which I might add is quite often) asks my husband and me. We have gone to one or two of her parties but find we have nothing in common with either our hosts or their friends. The last two parties she invited us to we declined saying that we had previous engagements. She is having another party shortly to which we have been invited. Evidently our past refusals have not discouraged her, and it is becoming very embarrassing. Will you please tell me what I can do, without being rude, to get out of these invitations?"

There is nothing possible for you to do except continue to have previous engagements and by and by she will probably stop asking you.

Green Bean Variations

By Edith M. Barber

GREEN BEAN VARIATIONS CAN ADD EYE-CATCHING APPEAL TO MOST MEALS. SERVE WITH CREAM SAUCE OR A CRANBERRY-VINEGAR-MUSTARD GLAZE.

THIS country is a fertile land. Of course, we are proud of our industries, but the basis of our prosperity is undoubtedly our agriculture.

We all appreciate the fact that most of our citrus fruits come from the south and the west. From these sections we obtain a constant supply of fresh vegetables. We are not so conversant with the sources of our canned and frozen vegetables. This is a matter of great importance, however, to food processors. Both climate and soil play a part in the production of quality products.

Recently I learned that the peas for a rather new dehydrated soup come almost entirely from the Middle West. Many of the green beans for canning are grown and packed in Oregon and Washington, and to some extent in a few other states. The special variety is known as "Blue Lake." They are stringless, as almost all fresh and frozen beans on the market are today, although from habit we still call them string beans.

Unlike most other strains of green beans this type is almost straight, and is often canned whole or sliced lengthwise. They can also be obtained sliced as some people like the smaller pieces. The beans may be drained and the liquid uncovered for about eight minutes to reduce quantity; add beans, cover simmer for few minutes until heated through. Melt cranberry sauce in small saucepan with mustard and vinegar. Pour glaze over beans to coat well. Toss before serving. Yield: Four servings.

Green Beans in Cream.
Drain beans. Combine one-fourth cup liquid with one-half cup cream or rich milk. Add beans, cover and simmer over low heat until thoroughly heated. Add nutmeg, salt and pepper to taste.

Food Binge in Germany--Diet at Home

By Clarissa Start

ANYONE who thinks he's heard the last of my world travels doesn't know me—or world travelers—very well. Providentially, kind readers keep encouraging me.

"Tell us about the food you had in German restaurants," writes a Ferguson woman.

Clarissa Start, had such a gourmet type binge since the last trip to New Orleans. Heavily, and not all wiener schnitzel and fried potatoes, either. Wonderful, thick soups, simmered for hours, not dumped from can to pan. Venison steak and other meats with flavorful brown sauces. Potatoes in a dozen guises including one delectable type, mashed, rolled into logs, dipped in bread crumbs, and fried, delicately.

With the zeal of a scholar discovering a new philosophy, I grasped at the idea that perhaps these excursions into extra-caloric realms could continue.

I regret to report that this system does not work at home. Whether it was the steeple climbing, the colder climate, or the reversed schedule I'll never know. I only know that in my native habitat, meals in the middle of the day and meals at the end all seem to end up at the same place. If you know what I mean.

And so we say farewell to breakfast rolls, potato pancakes, whipped cream, condiment. Back to poached eggs. On toast. Unbuttered. But I'm not going to talk about it.

WELL, SOME ARE, but no more so than most of the women here who are foreverlastingly talking about diet. Maybe, I decided, if you don't pay so much attention to it, it's easier.

Then a diet article in a recent Vogue gave me another clue. Recent studies have shown, said the article, it isn't what you eat but when. Thin women eat as much as

A Relaxing Book

'Questions Parents Ask'

By Frances Illig, M.D., and Louise Ames, Ph.D.
Of the Gesell Institute of Child Development

If you are one of the many parents who, perhaps with some justification, feel that too many books have already been written about child behavior, "Questions Parents Ask" by James Lee Ellwood (Dutton) is not for you.

If, on the contrary, you really enjoy reading other people's notions about how you should or might treat your children, you will find a book that is amusing, some that is instructive, and a good deal that is relaxing.

There seems to be something of a race among child specialists today as to who can be the most informal and relaxed. In such a competition Ellwood should come out well toward the front. The words and phrases he uses — "dearie," "sweetie," "darn," "pesky," "not date" may be considered by many to be unnecessarily informal. But at least his style and advice will not make you tense about the problems of parenthood.

WHY ARE CHILDREN so eager to get away from home? he queries. And answers, "by way of personal testimony, let me frank confes that more than once I have been deeply thankful for the opportunity of escaping from the awful boredom and deadly ennui that settled like dust on everything and

By Ramon Coffman

A TIME came when the Romans lost their power in Britain. The island remained under the power of the Picts and Scots in the north, and the southern two thirds fell into the hands of the Angles, Saxons and Jutes. The Celts held Wales and a few other sections.

Q. What happened to the Romans?

A. More than 1500 years ago the Roman Empire started to lose its power to the so-called "barbarians." The Visigoths, Ostrogoths, Lombards and various other Germanic tribes swept down from northern Europe.

Many of the Roman soldiers who had been stationed in Britain were called back to the mainland to defend the empire. During this period there were barbarian raids on Britain. Roman forts were captured, and the soldiers in them died or escaped to forests or other wild areas.

Q. Did the Angles give their name to England?

A. Yes. In due course the name of Angle-land (or Land of the Angles) came into use for the southern two thirds of Britain. From Angle-land came Ang-land or England.

The Angles had lived in western Europe, in the area of southern Denmark and northwestern Germany. They were related to Dutch and German tribesmen.

with help from the Jutes. One little kingdom of the Angles was East Anglia, and others were Mercia and Northumbria.

Many Jutes made their homes in the county now known as Kent. The Saxons gave their name to Wesse (West Saxons), to Sussex (South Saxons) and to Essex (East Saxons). Some of the Celts or Britons, found that they could live at peace with the Anglo-Saxons, as the invaders came to be called.
